

Erlanger Players To Close Atlanta Season Saturday

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

After playing a four weeks' engagement, highly successful from an artistic standpoint but not quite so successful financially, the Robert Williams players headed by Miss Helen Menken will close the spring season at the Erlanger Saturday night when the final curtain falls on the performance of "Seventh Heaven."

Announcement to this effect was made Wednesday by Mr. Williams and by Lewis Haase, manager of the Erlanger, and while the original contract called for only four weeks it is not at all impossible that Mr. Williams will be able to come back to Atlanta later in the summer for a renewal of a season of first-class Broadway productions.

"While we are closing our engagement here Saturday night I have by no means lost faith in our idea that Atlanta would give excellent support to a company bringing the highest class Broadway productions here with recognized stars in leading roles," Mr. Williams said Wednesday. "Because of arrangements to handle a company in another city I will not be able to continue here all the summer, although it would have been possible to have continued all activities in Atlanta had the attendance been just a bit better. We have been royally treated here, both by the people of Atlanta and by the Erlanger management, headed by Mr. Haase, and it is possible that we will be able to come back here later in the season and carry out our original idea."

Mr. Williams said he felt that he had carried out every promise made to the people of Atlanta. "We came here under an original four weeks' contract," he said. "Under this contract we agreed to present high-class plays, with able actors in leading parts and produced on a typical Broadway scale. We have presented 'Romance,' 'Saturday's Children,' 'A Crime' and Miss Menken's big hit, 'Seventh Heaven.' We have spent as much money on staging alone as the salary list of an ordinary stock company would total. The salary of our star, Miss Menken, alone is as much as the entire pay roll of some stock companies. We have brought other high-class people here, the best in their line, and feel that we have carried out our promise to the letter."

Rumors have been afloat that the Robert Williams players would shift over to the Foreth theater for a summer's run, but Mr. Williams also denied this report.

The company came to Atlanta four weeks ago under the joint management of Mr. Williams and Fred Kohlman but Mr. Kohlman was called back to

New York and Mr. Williams continued the engagement as sole manager. In the company besides Mr. Williams and Miss Menken are such notable players as Felix Krebs, George Baxter, Miss Nina Penn, Miss Isabel O'Madigan, Ray Walburn, John Galt, and Miss

ROBERT WILLIAMS.

Barbara Jolliffe, Miss Elvia Enders, David Newell, John Galt, Neil Cornell, Miss Helen Aubrey, R. M. Rhodes, Louis Letton, J. R. Willis and Fred Brigan. Edward Clark Lilly directed the company with Frank Angus as art director.

Mr. Williams and Mr. Haase will leave for New York next week and some important developments in regard to presentations at the Erlanger may develop from that visit, it was hinted.

RELIC OF CHEROKEE GAME OF 'CHUNGKE' FOUND BY ATLANTAN

A small polished stone disc, known to archaeologists as a discoidal stone, and apparently the relic of the days when the Cherokee Indians of north Georgia played their national game of "chungke" in valleys now given over to the hissing of golf balls, was donated to the museum of the state capital this week by W. M. Williams, of Atlanta.

Dr. S. W. McCallie, state geologist, took considerable interest in the relic. It was found, he explained, on the banks of the Coosawatee river about eight miles northeast of Calhoun in Gordon county—close by the vicinity where Dr. Warren Mouchard of Dover, Mass., has been conducting some excavations among prehistoric mounds.

The object is somewhat similar to a number of others already on display in the museum, but is far superior. Dr. McCallie said, in finish and craftsmanship. It consists of a stone disc about five inches in diameter and about one and one-half inches thick, with concave sides and a smooth, highly polished rim.

According to Dr. McCallie, who had consulted archaeological volumes in the state library, the stone was used by the Cherokees in the favorite game of the tribes—"chungke," a sport that may roughly be described as a combination of trapshooting and javelin-throwing, to use more modern terms.

TWO ADMINISTRATORS NAMED IN JEFFERSON

Louisville, Ga., May 9.—The court of ordinary of Jefferson county held an important session here on Monday, the first Monday being the regular court day for this court.

Two cases of widespread interest were disposed of in the way of administration of estates. One of these was the naming of Judge M. C. Barwick as administrator of the estate of the late Miss Maggie Lowry, of Louisville, who died about two months ago. Miss Lowry died intestate, and at first no near relatives were found. Upon search several first cousins have been located, 14 in all, 12 of whom requested the court to name Judge Barwick, of Louisville, the administrator. William Malcolm Lowry, of Kansas City, Mo.; Miss Ruth Lowry, of Atlantic City, N. J., together with a number of cousins in Mississippi, are the legatees to the property, which will amount perhaps to $25,000 or $30,000.

J. R. Phillips, of Louisville, was named administrator of the estate of ex-Governor B. R. Comer, of Alabama, who died leaving real estate in this country. While Governor Comer left a will it was witnessed by only two witnesses, which complies with the Alabama law, but the Georgia law requires three witnesses to a will. The administratorship was therefore necessary as to the Georgia property.

Drs. R. J. Jefferson, C. L. Harris, E. Griggs, C. P. Hobbs, A. W. Dennis, William Kiser, of Georgia, have been given positions in the body. Tuesday night was missionary anniversary and Wednesday night the educational anniversary was observed.

CONSTITUTION ADS MEAN FREE LUNCH FOR ATLANTANS

Constitution ads have always been of unusual importance to Atlantans, but beginning this morning and continuing indefinitely they're going to mean bread and meat for somebody.

In this issue Britling's Cafeteria at 90 Pryor street, N. E., launches a series of advertisements of its "specials." In these ads will be printed daily the name of an Atlanta man or woman, and those who are named will be supplied with a free lunch on presentation of the coupon within three days of its publication.

"Watch our ads," J. R. Nix, manager of Britling's, said Wednesday. "Your name may be published any time."

A CHOICE SALAD OIL
—deliciously good to eat—

Any woman who has a flair for French Dressing will tell you what a piquant touch it has when blended freshly at the table.
And incidentally she'll tell you that Wesson Oil makes quite the most captivating salad dressing that she knows.
And no wonder! For your oil is perhaps the most important part of your dressing. And here is a salad oil so deliciously good to eat that many people use it plain, just as it is, for salads and vegetables.
You know it's pure and wholesome the moment you see the light, crystal-clear color of it. . . And there's no salad oil that has a more exquisite delicacy of flavor.
Indeed, that is one of the reasons why Wesson Oil blends so perfectly with the other ingredients of your dressing. . . Next time you make French Dressing, try Wesson Oil. It's good and it's good for you.
And whisper it—here's another suggestion . . . For frying and for baking, Wesson Oil makes food taste much better. It's convenient to use, too.

ATTEMPT IS MADE TO END MINE TROUBLE

Athens, Ohio, May 9.—(P)—Opposing groups within the United Mine Workers' Union met here today with the prospect of a discussion that may affect the continuance of the deadlock that has kept coal operators and officials of the union at variance for more than a year on the subject of wages. Oral Daugherty, deposed head of Sub-District No. 3, embracing the Hocking Valley field and more than 1,000 of his close adherents attended. The meeting, the largest ever held in the Hocking Valley, was called by officials of the United Mine Workers for the purpose of "stating the position of the union" to circle organizations of the valley who are backing Daugherty in an effort to reopen the mines on the best wage scale that can be obtained.

Coincident with arrival of the crisis in the mine situation in the Hocking Valley fields, came announcement from Steubenville of the sentencing of nine more union sympathizers to jail terms by Federal Judge Benson Hough for conspiring to violate injunctions.

Quiet prevailed today in all the mining sections with interest centered on the mass meeting here, the outcome of which was generally predicted to have an important bearing on reopening of Ohio mines.

Four distinct groups of coal miners were represented at the meeting at Athens, which was addressed by Philip Murray, internal vice president of the mine workers, and Lee Hall, Ohio president.

The first was coal miners remaining loyal to the United Mine Workers of America and favoring continuance of the strike with settlement only on the basis of the Jacksonville wage scale; the second was those belonging to the "wave the union" group, recently expelled from the United Mine Workers; the third was members of the organization favoring forming of an independent union with Oral Daugherty as leader, accepting the best wage scale possible and returning to work, and the last was the group of non-union workers who are at work in the mines.

Atlanta Schools Plan Graduation Day Ceremonies

Atlanta's vast numbers of school children Wednesday began counting the hours until they hear "School's out" for the last time this term, when the board of education announced that local schools will close for the summer promptly at noon on June 1. Plans are now being laid for the graduation exercises of the senior high schools, and for the promotion day programs of the junior high and elementary schools. Promotion day will be May 31 for the elementary and junior high schools.

Graduation program dates were announced as follows: May 24, Central Night school; May 25, Atlanta Normal Training school; May 28, Atlanta Opportunity school; May 29, Boy's High school; May 30, Tech High school; and June 2, Booker Washington (colored) High school.

Final examinations in senior high schools will be held May 21, 22 and 23, it was announced.

Registration of all new pupils and pupils who attended summer school will be held on September 5 for the opening of the first quarter of the next school year. It was announced Wednesday by the board of education. Regular work will start on September 10, with short hours for the day, the regular hours to apply first on the next day, September 11.

BARRERE SYMPHONY TICKETS GO ON SALE

The ticket sale for the Barrere Little symphony concert, to take place at 8:30 o'clock Friday night at the auditorium, opened Wednesday morning with a large number taking advantage of the "Two for One" offer made by the Atlanta Music club in sponsoring the latest concert of the season on the "Civic Series." The ticket sale will continue at Phillips and Crew Piano company at the usual single ticket scale of prices, ranging from $1 to $2.50, until the evening of the concert, when tickets may be had at the auditorium. The junior club members do not have to pay for this concert, as it is included in their membership card, which must be reserved before the concert. A special section has been set aside in the dress circle for the children of the club.

The Barrere Little symphony is the expanded organization of the original "Barrere Ensemble." When George Barrere came to America to play with the New York symphony he did not mean to be lost in the midst of a great orchestra, even though the silver tones of his flute invariably directed attention to his chair. All about him he saw large ensembles and small groups, too, but always string quartets. He remembered his society of wind instruments in France and decided to revive it in this country. Thus in 1910 the "Barrere Ensemble," consisting of flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon and horn, was launched upon its career, following the ideals of its Parisian parent.

The success of the ensemble is evidenced in the enthusiastic acceptance and support of both press and public. The late Henry Krebbs, eminent New York critic, said, after hearing a concert by the ensemble, "Finally a word of unqualified praise for Mr. Barrere, whose pleasing variety of The performance was an unequivocal and triumphant success."

Mr. Barrere shares all his glory generously with his four colleagues: Pierre Mathew, oboe; Fred Van Amburgh, clarinet; Louis Letellier, bassoon; and Santiago Richart, horn. In 1914 Mr. Barrere, founder of the little symphony, added to the ensemble an adequate balance of the string instruments, with Saul Shuman, first violin; George Raudenbush, second violin; Giulio Hayrich, viola; Alberico Guidi, violoncello; Saul Shuman, bass; and Karl Glassman, tympani.

NEGRO WHO PAID $61.20 TO INDORSE WINS COURT FIGHT

After paying $61.20 in "fees" to the indorser on a note, the face value of which was only $15, Elbert Dawson, a negro, declined to pay any more money and was brought into municipal court Wednesday, where he won his case, the court ordering the indorser to return to Dawson the full amount of money paid.

It was stated in court that Dawson borrowed the money, giving his furniture as security with J. L. Morgan as an endorser. The negro swore he was forced to pay Morgan $3.40 a month for renewing his indorsement of the note. The money was borrowed from the Emory Securities corporation. The Legal Aid society, of Fulton county, brought the proceedings which resulted in a victory for the negro.

WIDENED FISSURES WEAKEN BIG DAM

Table Rock Cove, S. C., May 9.—(AP)—Widened fissures at the crown and a deeper gap from sloughing were visible in the Table Rock dam today, while the water on the lake side had needed still more, lessening the menace from a collapse of the big dyke.

"Several carloads" of dirt sloughed off last night, carrying with it one-half of the 300-foot crown, and fissures on the lake side extended to within 10 feet of the surface of the artificial lake. Deputy Sheriff Harmon Moore, a guard on the dyke, reported last night.

Engineers continued optimistic that the earthen barrier would erode slowly, giving ample time for the water, which yesterday measured 100 feet deep, to escape slowly.

Three line-men who built a telephone line from the dam to Mountain Colony inn, four miles away, giving dyke guards ready communication with the outside world, said fissures on the lake side were three feet wide at the crown and narrowed as they extended down to within 10 feet of the water level.

Water continued to gush through a leak in the dyke discovered late Friday and through two openings made by engineers in the hope of draining the lake of its huge water store before the earthen barrier could slough away entirely.

Below the dam, refugees and industrial plants in the valley were cheered by optimistic opinions of the situation expressed yesterday by army engineers after an inspection of the 700-foot long, 145-foot high dyke.

Food, clothing and shelter had been given 600 or more persons who fled their homes when the dam sprang a leak. Below Greenville, the Piedmont Manufacturing company, a textile plant, resumed operations after opening its flood gates Sunday as a precautionary measure. Relief workers said needs of refugees had been met.

WHEAT GROWING IN TERRELL LOOKS PROMISING IN 1938

Dawson, Ga., May 9.—(Special)—Wheat growing in Terrell county promises to be a profitable industry this year, according to the county agent, A. E. Gibson, who has visited a number of wheat fields within the past few days.

Ardell Smith and Wesley Chambers, who live on the New Hope road southwest of Dawson, have as fine prospects for wheat as is to be found anywhere in the so-called wheat belt, and yields as high as 30 bushels per acre are expected by both of these farmers.

Trek To Cities Will Continue, Experts Declare

Memphis, May 9.—(AP)—Migration of a large part of the country population to the cities is a movement which must be expected to continue at a rather rapid rate for some time, Leon E. Truesdell, chief statistician of the bureau of the census, said today before the assembly of the National Conference of Social Workers.

In explaining some of the reasons for this migration Mr. Truesdell cited the use of machinery on farms which causes a decrease of laborers and the fact that many productive activities of the farms have been transferred to city factories.

"Here and there is found a young man of marked initiative in whom the love of the land is so strong that he will not listen to the call of the city," Mr. Truesdell said.

"Then we find men with a new vision of what farm life may become under modern conditions. These men are the hope of the farming communities for the near future."

At some future time, Mr. Truesdell added, when a proper balance has been attained between the output of urban products and the output of agricultural products "we may expect to find many children of city families who have inherited from some farmer ancestor that land-mindedness, which is the fundamental requirement for happiness in agriculture, leaving the city and establishing themselves on the farm."

Incapacitated War Vets' Compensation To Be Increased

WATSON HAS LEAD IN INDIANA VOTE

Indianapolis, May 9.—(AP)—Admitting defeat, Oscar G. Foellinger, manager of Herbert Hoover's presidential campaign in Indiana, this afternoon issued a formal statement congratulating Senator James E. Watson on his victory and calling on the senator "to release Indiana's 33 delegates after Watson's name is dropped" at the national republican convention.

"From the viewpoint of actual votes cast," Foellinger said, "Herbert Hoover has been defeated, but considering the fight he waged and against whom, he has won a great victory. As opposition he met not only one of the most powerful political machines in the United States but also the combined strength of all other presidential candidates. That he lost by a small number of votes is a tribute to his popularity as a man, an executive, a humanitarian and an American."

"Hoover's candidacy, nationally, cannot be stopped. That Indiana has chosen to give Senator Watson, a favorite son, a slight edge in this state means nothing except a compliment to the state for the near future."

Returns from 2,720 out of 3,610 precincts in the state for president give:

Republican: James E. Watson 155,837; Herbert Hoover 130,005.

Democrat: (1,504 precincts). Woolen 89,910.

Returns from 2,254 out of 3,610 precincts in the state give for United States senator:

Democrat: Albert Stump 93,964; Walter Myers 43,842; William Curry 16,343.

BODY OF FORMER ATLANTAN FOUND IN RIVER SWAMP

Macon, Ga., May 9.—(AP)—The body of Charles P. Ivey, formerly of Atlanta, who had been missing since April 2, was found today in a swamp along the banks of the Ocmulgee river five miles below Macon.

The body, badly decomposed, was found by a fisherman, who immediately notified the sheriff's office here.

Two pocket knives, a letter and a bit of silver were found in his pockets. The letter and one of the knives were identified by a son of Mr. Ivey.

Mr. Ivey was 58 years old. He was a carpenter, but for a time was employed by the Fruit Growers Express in Atlanta and was in the rural mail service for a number of years prior to that.

Mr. Ivey was born at Millidgeville, but lived in Macon for about 10 years. After leaving his job in Atlanta recently, he returned to Macon, where he remained for about two weeks, then disappeared. Search was made by city detectives and police officers, but no trace of him could be found.

Blease Attacks Bank Committee For Its Report

Washington, May 9.—(AP)—Disapproval by the senate banking committee of his resolution for an investigation of the Columbia, S. C., land bank, was attacked in the senate today by Senator Blease, democrat, South Carolina.

He declared that only nine of the 18 senators had been present at the committee meeting and that the vote against his resolution was five to four instead of unanimously as he said Chairman Norbeck had announced.

"In this way," he continued, "five men are taken to represent the opinion of the whole senate."

Blease said he had been waiting for three days for Norbeck to make a report of the committee action and had decided to speak only when this was not forthcoming. He told of being invited to a delegate to the South Carolina state convention last Monday and cited this as proof that his constituents indorsed his insistence upon the investigation of the Columbia bank.

Norbeck later denied that he had announced the committee vote as unanimous and said the adverse report to the senate was delayed by other important committee business.

He declared the report would be "five men" because of the many charges made against the bank which had been looked into.

He briefly reviewed evidence which had been laid before the committee and renewed his previous contention that there was not sufficient evidence of maladministration of the bank to warrant an inquiry.

Commissioners To Ask Relief From Agreement To Grade State Highway

Dawson, Ga., May 9.—(Special)—The Terrell county board of commissioners will ask to be relieved of the agreement with the state highway board to grade the Dawson-Shelton road to the Randolph county line and lay a road of gravel base ready for an asphalt surfacing and have the work done by a private contractor if it meets with the approval of the state authorities.

The commissioners have not yet been able to secure right of way through the property of a number of land owners and work preparatory to hard-surfacing this link of the short route cannot be begun until this is done.

CONVICTED NEGRO GETS NEW TRIAL

Raleigh, N. C., May 9.—(AP)—Larry Newton, youthful Negro county negro, who was convicted of murder for slaying a young white girl, in a sensational Sunday court session at Goldsboro several months ago, today was granted a new trial by the state supreme court.

The court did not take cognizance of the unusual circumstances surrounding the trial but held that an error in the charge of Judge Henry A. Grady to the jury had invalidated the verdict under which Newton was sentenced to the electric chair.

Newton admitted having attacked and slain the girl. He was brought to the state prison here for safe keeping but a day later was secretly taken to Goldsboro and late on Saturday afternoon the trial started. Unable to finish the trial on Saturday Judge Grady ordered a Sunday session.

When court opened on Sunday relatives of the dead girl attempted to take the negro away from officers in the courtroom. Judge Grady drew the bench ready for action while deputy sheriffs and troops stood guard. The negro was quickly sentenced to death and hurried here.

NAVIGATION OPENING TO BE SET BY U. S.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 9.—(AP)—Official opening date for navigation on the great lakes hereafter will be set by the government. H. B. Tegarden, special assistant to the United States attorney general, made known today the government in determining the date would take into consideration ice and weather conditions and declare navigation open on the first safe day instead of the first day a vessel could get through regardless of hazards, he said.

The decision, however, would not be binding upon either shipper or carrier.

Conflict between western grain growers and great lakes shippers, which culminated in an injunction suit filed by the department of justice in the results in the action taken by the government. Thirty-one individuals and companies were charged with restraint of trade because they had refused the opening of navigation this year from April 15 as in the past to May 15.

Upon complaint of western shippers, who said the late opening had tied up 30,000,000 bushels of grain and caused heavy losses, Tegarden conducted an investigation. In the past, he said, the opening date had been determined by the Duluth (Minn.) board of trade as the date when the first vessel penetrated the ice from upper to lower lakes. Contracts for spring loadings of grain from the north have been made on that basis.

Suit brought by the department of justice, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed on account of illness of Federal Judge D. C. Westhaven. He said he would hold court at his residence today. None of the defendants had filed answers yesterday, the final day, and a consent decree was expected.

CHICAGO BAR ASKS PROBE; HITS CROWE

Chicago, May 9.—(AP)—Charging that Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, is disqualified to act because of personal interests, the Chicago Bar association today appeared in the criminal court for a special grand jury to investigate April primary election irregularities under the direction of the attorney general.

A hearing on the petition, bristling with charges against the state's attorney, was set for next Monday after the bar association in a surprise move, had presented the petition before Judge Harry B. Miller, of the criminal court, instead of Chief Justice William V. Broderick, who had expected to receive it. Judge Miller said he had not expected the petition in his court and continued the matter.

The petition charged that Mr. Crowe, defeated in the April primary, "has a personal, disqualifying interest which makes it inexpedient, unbecoming and improper" for him to act as prosecutor in the investigation requested.

It further charged that Crowe's supporters were responsible for bombing the homes of members of the opposing republican political faction preceding the primary, including those of Senator Charles S. Dennen and Judge John A. Swanson, who defeated Crowe for the nomination, and also declared that during the Crowe regime, the "spoils system" has prevailed in municipalities and the sanitary district.

Official Family To Attend Emory Closing Concert

Governor L. G. Hardman on Wednesday added his name to the list of prominent Georgians who are working to make the Emory Glee club's farewell pre-European concert, at the city auditorium May 18, one of the best attended affairs of its kind in Atlanta's history.

Declaring that "the Emory Glee club has but few equals and possibly no superiors in its attainments," the governor reserved a box for his family at the concert and also issued an official statement to be used by the club in Europe.

"It is indeed a privilege and a great pleasure to commend to the English people, and to those of the European continent, the Emory Glee club," reads the letter to European governmental officials. "This club has but few equals and possibly no superiors in its attainments. Any patronage given them, I am sure, will be gratifying to those who are fortunate enough to hear the musical presentations of these fine singers of the south."

"There is a desire in the southern section of the United States that the English speaking people, especially, shall know more of this section of the country, as well as the entire United States, and I most heartily commend the motive that inspires these young men in their undertakings."

Another event of interest in glee club circles Wednesday was the departure of Byron Warner, guest soloist of the Emory concert, for Shreveport, La., where he will give a recital Friday night.

Atlanta Mothers To Crowd Howard for Annual Party

Have you made your plans for next Monday morning, mothers? Daughter can take care of luncheon—she'll be glad to—and sonny will bring you down town at 11 o'clock so that you can be right on time for the annual theater party for mothers which is given at the Howard theater each year on the Monday following Mother's day, by The Constitution.

All mothers, who are 50 years of age or over, are invited to attend, and the only thing necessary for admission is the accompanying coupon, filled out with the name and address and presented at the Howard theater door at 11 o'clock Monday morning.

For many years The Constitution has honored the mothers of the city and on every occasion a program of great entertainment has been supplied by the Howard theater. This year the Howard will present its regular program for next week, which includes "Easy Come, Easy Go," one of those exuberant, dashing Richard Dix feature films, and "Rainbows," a beautiful Public unit.

Every mother Monday will see her own son personified in the youthful genius of Richard Dix, who has made his name famous for his portrayals of the clean, wholesome youth of the modern day. "Easy Come, Easy Go," is just such a picture and it contains many a laugh for audiences.

Dix is seen in "Easy Come, Easy Go," as a rollicking youth, with the same principles outlined in the title—easy come, easy go—and as is customary with every Dix picture many laughs are caused by the star's comical experiences dashing down the main boulevard on a dilapidated bicycle in pursuit of the Rolls-Royce which is bearing away an attractive young miss with whom Dix is enamored.

"Rainbows," the Public unit, is said to be filled to the brim with the finest kind of stage entertainment, and a brilliant company of stage artists is featured in the production.

Mystery Man of Waycross Baffles Police and Visitors

SAYS HIS NAME IS "LEROY SMITH"

BY H. A. STALLINGS.
Waycross, Ga., May 9.—(Special.) The mystery man held in the Ware county jail here whose identity has been sealed by his own lips and whose actions have led jail authorities to believe him to be a victim of amnesia, insisted today that his name is Leroy Smith, though he says he does not remember who or where his relatives are. He has disclosed to officers further that he is an ex-serviceman, having served in France during the world war, and that he was a government hospital in New Mexico since the war.

This is the story told to a member of the city police department and effort to find a record of his alleged army service are being made. He says that he was drafted into the army at Camp Travis, Texas, and that he served overseas for a period of seven months before he was sent to the hospital.

The story is one of several told during the past week by the prisoner, and Leroy Smith is one of three names given to officers. Leroy Williamson and Leroy Lafayette Robertson are the other two names he has furnished. A number of inquiries have reached authorities here as to the description of the prisoner, among them being a letter from a Mrs. T. C. Daughie, Columbus, Ga., who expresses the hope that he is her son whom she believes was shell-shocked during the war. The description furnished by Mrs. Daughie corresponds with that of the mystery man held here.

Another letter of inquiry from George E. White, Savannah, says that the description answers to that of a friend, Max E. Courtright, who has been missing for a long time. The prisoner maintains that he is content with his lot in the Ware county jail, being well pleased with the treatment he is receiving at the hands of jail authorities and with his association with other prisoners whom he regards as "princes and good fellows."

He has been in the Ware county jail for a week during which time he has suffered attacks when his mind seemed to be totally deranged. Twice he has torn his clothing off and has been visited by "visions."

He maintained until two days ago that he had not been in the army but officers took the fact that he stood at attention when he was being questioned as a strong indication that he had seen military service. His story of having served in France and his confinement in a government hospital followed a series of examinations conducted by local authorities and physicians.

In answer to questions concerning how long he has been out of the hospital and what he has been doing since he left he says that he does not remember.

Story of Hebrew Renaissance Told By C. A. Cowen

Spiritual and cultural values, being evolved by the Jews as a people for the first time in centuries and destined to enrich the lives of world Jewry as well as the various contemporary cultures, is the reward that Palestine offers in return for the world-wide interest taken in its upbuilding.

This was the opinion voiced by Charles A. Cowen, well-known New York attorney and journalist, who addressed a large gathering Wednesday night at the Jewish Progressive club. Mr. Cowen is touring the south in a movement to stimulate Zionist membership.

A virtual Hebrew renaissance has sprung up in Palestine with the great announcement made there since the world war, Mr. Cowen stated. The Zionist leader recently returned from a tour of Palestine and recounted to his Atlanta audience the impression made on him of progress in the cultural side of life that has kept pace with agricultural and industrial developments in the Holy Land.

The Hebrew language is now as much an established environment of Palestine as English is in western portions of the globe, Mr. Cowen continued. This has been insured by the lasting literature that is growing in the Jewish homeland, written in Hebrew as the native tongue, the speaker remarked.

"The nation's development of Palestine is a certainty," Mr. Cowen said. "The question is whether, with its ideal accomplished, Zionism will dwindle away into oblivion. It is true that today there is more interest in Zionism than ever before, but it is not fully realized that for Palestine to be a cultural benefit to Jews of the world Zionism must continue to grow even after Palestine succeeds."

Mr. Cowen also spoke of the steady growth of agricultural colonies in Palestine and the great impetus given by the recent industrial activity.

The Zionist leader's address followed a dinner given to honor J. Saul, prominent Atlanta merchant, for his successful work as general chairman of the U. P. A. drive. He was presented with a token of esteem by his fellow workers in the campaign.

CHILD DISAPPEARS AND WOMAN ASKS HUSBAND'S ARREST

The latest development in the disappearance of Lee Cameron, aged 3, son of Mrs. Edna Cameron, 705 Central avenue, came Monday with her announcement that she had sworn out a warrant for her husband in municipal court, charging kidnapping.

Mrs. Cameron alleges that her husband, accompanied by an unidentified woman, abducted the child from her apartment Tuesday morning. She further states that this act was illegal by virtue of the fact that she was awarded the custody of the child by the order of a New Orleans court issued in March, 1926. She says that she now has divorce proceedings pending against him.

According to a description furnished by his mother Lee Cameron is three years old, has olive complexion, light hair and black eyes. When last seen he was wearing a navy blue overcoat, trimmed with brass buttons, and a blue cap.

C. OF C. DISCUSSES FARM RELIEF BILL

Washington, May 9.—(AP)—The problem of farm relief held the attention of today's session of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States with the business men generally conceding that the McNary-Hawley bill, now on the last lap of its legislative journey through congress, was not the panacea to restore agriculture to prosperity.

Dwight B. Heard, publisher of the Arizona Republic, at Phoenix, who headed the chamber's advisory agriculture committee, declared in an address before the agriculture section of the organization that his group after an investigation of the problem could not recommend the measure or any other legislative remedy now before congress. He proposed that a federal farm board be created by the president to study the needs of agriculture and then make a comprehensive report to congress to secure adequate legislation.

In the face of what is considered an almost certain rebuff from the senate, the chamber's finance group adopted a resolution recommending that the federal corporation income tax be reduced to 10 per cent. The revenue bill adopted by the house provided a cut from 13 1/2 to 11 1/2 per cent, while republicans in the senate are championing a rate of 12 1/2 per cent.

Advocates of repeal of the federal estate tax be reduced to 10 per cent. The turn of a restatement of the chamber's position with respect to taxation.

TRADES FEDERATION TO ASSIST TEACHERS

congress for legislation to refund to the taxpayers any material surplus available at the close of the fiscal year, also was adopted.

Pledging itself to assist the teachers of the Fulton county public school system in securing a salary increase, the Atlanta Federation of Trades at its semi-monthly meeting Wednesday night, went on record as deploring the low scale of compensation paid in the county school system.

It was pointed out that the county school teachers, particularly in the primary department, are paid far less than the teachers in the Atlanta public schools, although doing practically the same work and being required to have more than the minimum qualifications.

The federation decided to lay the matter before the county board of education and the county commissioners with the idea of securing more funds for teachers' salaries.

Announcement was made that the charter had been received for the Atlanta Federation of Trades, and that a meeting for the purpose of electing officers and starting the enrollment of members is to be held next Wednesday night, May 23, at 8 p. m. at the Labor temple. It is planned to secure more than 500 members for the new credit union, this number being set as a goal with a total organized labor population in Atlanta of more than 10,000.

J. R. Boyd, head of the Legal Aid society, who has been active in organizing credit unions in this section, explained the workings of the credit union and urged the enrollment of organized workers throughout Atlanta.

CAVES FOR STORAGE OF LIQUOR FOUND

On the beach, coast guardsmen could not detect the illicit smuggling activity. They were just about to take Ward into Charleston for questioning when Johnson noticed a piece of canvas protruding from the sand. He gave it a tug. It pulled up in his hands and revealed a cleverly concealed iron door.

Flashlights were procured from the pilot boat. Johnson opened the door and descended into a concrete and sheet-iron constructed cave, approximately 16 feet long, 10 feet high and 6 feet wide. An ingenious arrangement of galvanized iron tubing ran to bushes on the beach and provided excellent ventilation.

Leading from the main cavern was a tunnel which extended 25 yards to the creek bank. The tunnel was only three feet high but was equipped with several hundred wooden rollers mounted on a wire track so that liquor cases could be unloaded at the river bank, placed through another trap door and shot rapidly underground to the main store house.

Cost guardsmen estimated this cavern could hold 2,000 cases of liquor. They decided to wait to see if anyone else approached. One of the guardsmen in the cave noticed a peculiar looking hole protruding from a walk. He pulled at it and as if by magic three doors opened, revealing three large caverns of similar construction, each 30 feet long, 10 feet wide and 4-12 feet high.

The three doors were so cleverly concealed that it was impossible to detect them when closed. Lieutenant Collins reported. The opening device, controlled by the bolt, consisted of rods run through tubes of galvanized iron, which when worked by a pull on the bolt head, released locks and permitted the traps to swing open.

"It appears that the operators were at work on the caves when the coast guard boat approached," Collins reported. "The caverns were completed with the exception of placing one roller and could have been placed in use within an hour."

The coast guard officer said he believed it was intended to run large boats into the creek, unload the liquor through the roller tunnel and then ship it to large northern cities in vegetable cars.

Brown and members of the picket boat crew were given special commendation by Admiral Bullard, coast guard commandant, for their discovery.

Interracial Committee Will Discuss Training School for Negro Girls

The woman's section of the Georgia state committee on interracial cooperation, of which Mrs. E. Marvin Underwood is chairman, will hold its annual meeting at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the Luckie Street Y. M. C. A. Morning and afternoon sessions will be held and an interesting program has been laid out.

The meeting will concern itself primarily with plans for a state training school for delinquent negro girls, the need of which is said to be very great. The State Federation of Colored Women's clubs for years has been working for the establishment of such a school and has raised a considerable fund to assist in carrying out the project. A report will be made, also, of an important study of negro child welfare, which is being made by the State Welfare board with the cooperation of the Roosevelt fund.

The general state committee on interracial cooperation, of which the woman's committee is a part, will meet at 9:30 o'clock on Friday, May 11, at the Y. M. C. A. Friday, Bishop F. F. Reese, the chairman, will call the meeting to order at 9:30 o'clock. The program, morning and afternoon, has been arranged for this meeting also.

error of the province of Anhwei and Shanghai, the three nationalists armies which succeeded in cutting the Shantung railway, April 30, at Ning-shui.

The Japanese were continuing today their attempts to disarm the nationalists as rapidly as they came in contact with them in the entire Tsinan area. The Japanese forces occupied the bridge across the Yellow river at Tsinan and other strategic points.

With the exception of the two encounters with Sotomaya's forces, most of the fighting was of a minor nature.

Hwang Fu, nationalist foreign minister, today published in Shanghai his version of the events leading to the hostilities at Tsinan. He says that relations between the nationalists and the Japanese were most friendly last Thursday morning and that the Japanese were removing the barricades and shops were reopening.

He was greatly surprised Thursday night, he says, on returning from General Chiang Kai Shek's headquarters to find there was shooting going on on all sides.

His statement continues with a narration of efforts to stop the firing, and he reiterates the story of the murder and mutilation of the Japanese, and the destruction of the Japanese appointed Shantung foreign commissioner.

He asserts the Japanese were the first to open fire, but he offers no evidence in support of his accusation.

pany of Georgia, and others composing a committee, advising them to place their holdings with the committee, these to be sold at a favorable opportunity.

A short time later Lindsay Hopkins, Atlanta treasurer and member of Danforth & Marshall of New York Stock Exchange, charged that a movement was afoot from within the company to sell the stock at a considerable advance. He advised the stockholders to name a knockdown price before granting the committee a power of attorney.

The combined assets of the two companies is said to be approximately $45,000,000.

Efforts here to obtain information relative to the reported negotiations were fruitless Wednesday. Ernest Woodruff, a director of Coca-Cola International, Wednesday said that he had no information to make public on any negotiations with the ginger ale people, while T. K. Glenn, president of the Trust Company of Georgia, who headed a list of Coca-Cola International stockholders in signing a letter asking other stockholders to file their stock for sale in a block, was out of the city.

The letter issued by the Trust Company of Georgia, as fiscal agent for Coca-Cola International, recently invited the stockholders to file their bonds with the company for sale in a block. Mr. Glenn later issued a statement in which he said that a majority of the stock had been deposited with the company. The letter asked stockholders for power of attorney to sell the stock within 90 days. The final date for filing the stock was April 24.

Villmore, treasurer for Reed, testified that of the $35,000 raised, the largest contributors were Otto M. of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing company, A. Busch, of the St. Louis brewers, and H. E. ## CHURCH TO VOTE ON UNIFICATION

Kansas City, May 9.—(AP)—Proposed union of the Methodist Episcopal church with the Presbyterian churches and the Congregationalist church will come before the Methodist Episcopal church tomorrow, following unanimous approval in committee today of unification overtures.

The committee on the state of the church recommended to the conference that all Methodist Episcopal unification commissions be united into a single commission of 27 members, whose duty will be to deal with all other bodies seeking union.

This commission would be composed of seven bishops, 10 other ministers and 10 laymen, to be chosen by the board of bishops and its personnel announced before May 21. The general conference would pay all the commission's expenses.

It was regarded as certain tonight by leaders for church union that the committee's endorsement forecast approval by the general conference, which already several times has shown its temper for unification with the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

The commission would have authority to suggest to the Methodist Episcopal church in all matters involving union. The plan was reported by a subcommittee headed by J. James Dean, dean of the graduate school of Northwestern university, and carried his hearty personal endorsement.

Eight-year maximum tenure of bishops was abolished today by the conference, which advised the Episcopal committee, in charge of assigning bishops, to no longer be guided by a set time limit. The bishop's record and qualifications will obtain instead.

FOUR SEAMEN SAFE, BOAT LOST, REPORTED

Norfolk, Va., May 9.—(AP)—Anxiety over the safety of three men who put out from the steamer Ethel off Virginia Beach yesterday to rescue one of their shipmates, who had been washed overboard, was partly dispelled when an indirect report was received here that they had been saved.

At the office of the United States Secretariat, it was learned that the three men, who were washed overboard, had been rescued, but the small boat was lost. The message was not direct from the Ethel, but was accepted as true by the United States Shipping company in the absence of any radio report from the captain of the steamer.

The rescue probably was made after the storm abated. It was said.

The steamer is believed to have passed in the Virginia Capes last night on account of a dense fog was not seen. A vessel carrying the three men anchored in Lynnhaven Roads before daybreak yesterday and then proceeded up the bay toward the Cape Henry government observatory at Cape Henry.

give favorable consideration to the conclusion of such a treaty and, if not, what specific modifications in the text would make it acceptable.

"Your excellency is aware," Premier Mussolini's note continued, "of the fact that there is under consideration in the Italian government a preliminary meeting of legal experts of the powers whose direct interest in the proposed treaty has been enlisted. The royal government has adhered to this procedure but has clearly pointed out that in its opinion such a meeting can only be effective if it is preceded by a legal expert of the government of the United States is assured."

"In accordance with this order of ideas I beg your excellency to communicate to Mr. Kellogg the live desire of the royal government that the participation of the United States in the preliminary meeting mentioned above be not lacking."

The United States has not been invited to a preliminary meeting by legal experts, it was explained at the state department today, and does not see the wisdom of such a meeting. Indications are that the proposal, made by one of the European powers, did not meet with unanimous approval and that the suggestion was dropped since Premier Mussolini handed his note to Ambassador Fletcher.

Replies from Japan, Great Britain, the only two nations yet to be heard from, are expected before long. The Japanese government has been occupied with elections and now has on its hands a delicate situation in China. Great Britain is sounding out her self-governing dominions on the proposal and as they are scattered the process of exchanging views takes considerable time.

NOTE—It would be illegal to publish this if not true.

OPINION DIVIDED ON INDIANA EFFECT

Washington, May 9.—(AP)—Friends of Herbert Hoover and his political foes in sharp disagreement today as to the real effect of the Indiana election primary in which Senator Watson, as a favorite son candidate, bested the commerce secretary in a fight for the 33 Hoover state delegates to the Kansas City convention.

Supporters of Watson and other republicans who have lined up in an effort to head off Hoover's nomination for the presidency made much of the point that Hoover had failed to carry the state and that the solid Indiana delegation, under law, must support Watson in the national convention until he releases it.

On the other hand, the Hoover forces, while admitting defeat, stressed the vote their candidate's polled, and made the prediction that once the 100 delegates are released many of their will be found in the Hoover fold.

Mr. Hoover, who was on the grill today at the senate campaign fund inquiry, declined to comment on the Indiana situation, stating that his policy of making no observations on the trend of the republican pre-convention campaign.

In a formal statement, however, James W. Good, directing head of the campaign activities, said that the commerce secretary had made a remarkable showing of popular strength in Indiana.

"That Mr. Hoover should have been able to roll back a vote in a contest with a powerful, well-trenched organization in the home state of an opposing candidate," Good added, "is one of the most striking evidences yet adduced of Secretary Hoover's strength with the republicans."

From Indiana came the contention by Oscar G. Foellinger, manager of Hoover campaign in that state, that despite defeat the cabinet official "has won a great victory." Foellinger congratulated Watson and called on the senator to release Indiana's 33 delegates, "after Watson's name is dropped," at the Kansas City convention.

As a result of his victory yesterday at the polls in his home state, Watson will go into the June convention as one of a group of favorite sons with blood of home state delegates definitely pledged to them. Whether there will be a consolidation of that strength, perhaps pooled to go to someone in the field against Hoover, remains to be seen, although there are predictions in some political quarters that this line of attack on the commerce secretary's candidacy may be adopted.

Yesterday's voting in Indiana also brought another democratic favorite into the field—Evans Woolen, Indianapolis banker, who has the support of "Tom" Taggart, Indiana wheel-horse in democratic party councils, and at Houston will have at his command, until he releases them, the 30 delegates from his home state. The Indiana law prohibited the writing in of any names in the preferential voting.

CHARLOTTE MAY GET NEXT U. C. V. REUNION

Little Rock, Ark., May 9.—(AP)—Charlotte, N. C., gained a slight advantage over Atlanta as a contender for the 1929 United Confederate Reunion when a report gained circulation today that several famed beauties of North Carolina would reward the first 50 veterans to pledge their support to Charlotte with a kiss.

Charlotte's bid for next year's reunion will be formally presented tomorrow by the Rev. Albert Sidney Johnston, personal representative of Governor McLean, of North Carolina.

As a part of the campaign, North Carolina delegates will hold a "North Carolina night" tonight. It was announced tonight that the reunion will give a concert at the entertainment during which Miss Anna Johnston Preston, great granddaughter of General Stonewall Jackson, is to be presented.

A committee of Confederate veterans is to return the visit of Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, to the south to accept the Stone Mountain memorial to the Confederacy in behalf of the nation, bearing a resolution of thanks from the New York executive for his address and eulogy to Robert E. Lee. The resolution of thanks and providing for appointment of a committee which was adopted unanimously was introduced today by General Harry Hene Lee, of Nashville, Tenn., adjutant-in-chief and chief of staff of the department of the thirty-third annual reunion of Confederate veterans.

A committee of veterans will be appointed to present the resolution in person to Mayor Walker. It will be engrossed and bordered by pictures of the Confederate flag.

Sentiment in favor of higher pensions for veterans and widows was strong at the opening session of the thirty-third annual reunion of Sons of Confederate Veterans today.

The relief committee's report expressed doubt that more than 100 southern states paid as much per capita for the care of Confederates as for the upkeep of indigents. The report said, "Payers cost each state about $300 per annum and half of this number of indigents are negroes. It seems to the committee that $500 per year would be a proper pension for Confederates and widows."

The subject of pensions also was discussed in the report of the commander-in-chief, Dr. S. L. Lowry, who outlined a plan to secure legislation for higher pensions. The sons were urged to use every effort to secure pensions sufficient to care for the veterans in their last days.

The meeting of Sons of Veterans was held in the chamber of the old Arkansas state capital where on May 6, 1861, the secession convention passed the ordinance of secession.

COTTON TRADING BILL IS REPORTED

Washington, May 9.—(United News.)—The house was urged today to enact the Vinson bill for regulating of cotton futures trading by applying the grain futures act principle to cotton trading, in a favorable report by the house agriculture committee.

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine has endorsed the measure in principle, which carried an amendment approved Tuesday providing southern deliveries of cotton stocks on New York contracts.

The committee's favorable report today came after extended investigation.

The senate cotton investigation committee did not meet today and Chairman Smith did not announce when it would reconvene to continue hearings on cotton carryover estimates, which has been the center of the inquiry during the past week.

General Allen, Infantry Chief, To Visit Georgia

Major General Robert H. Allen, chief of infantry of the United States army, will visit one point in South Carolina and four in Georgia from May 15 to May 30 for the purpose of observing infantry activities, according to information just received at fourth corps area headquarters from the war department.

General Allen's first visit will be at Fort Moultrie, S. C., on May 15, and at Fort Screven, Ga., on May 16, at which two places elements of the eighth United States infantry regiment are stationed. He is to be at Fort McPherson, Ga., on May 18 to look over certain elements of the eighth infantry brigade and twenty-second infantry. On May 21 General Allen will be at the large infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga., and May 30 will find him at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., where he will have an opportunity to visit the third battalion of the twenty-second infantry.

General Allen has been chief of infantry in the United States army since March 28, 1925. Born at Buchanan, Va., in 1870, he began his military career as a private in the eighth United States cavalry in 1893. In 1895 he was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry and has served with that arm since that date.

Zebulon Girl Wins District Prize for Essay on Stanton

MARJORIE REID, 14, SUBMITS BEST PAPER

Zebulon, Ga., May 9.—(Special).—Fourteen-year-old Marjorie Reid, of Zebulon, has been awarded first prize in the girls' ready-writing contest of the sixth district meeting recently held here among all accredited high schools in the district.

The paper submitted by young Miss Reid was entitled, "What Poems Will Make Stanton (Frank L. Stanton, poet laureate, deceased, of Georgia) famous?" and was prefaced with the following lines on the death of the famed writer:

Rest ye' brea' an' mourn in sorrow,
Honey, bow ye' head,
Who's going sing our song to-morrow?

Frank L. Stanton's said!

The paper continues:

Stanton is dead, a little more than a year ago the angels "looked" through the window of our poet to the heaven that "fame" was close to him when his baby son was born, and must have found a home in heaven that only Stanton could express. For what other reason was the south's sweetest singer taken from us?

The world called Stanton a poet. "But I'm not a poet," he said. "Then added, with a twinkle in his eye, 'till if a fellow goes fishing every day of his life, he's bound to get a nibble now and then."

Stanton's songs are known and loved on every continent today, because they are simple, honey songs of a simple, honey people who fill a noble home with a noble heart.

The greatest heart appeal of anything he ever wrote is found in "Marcelle." Mr. Stanton's daughter was dangerously ill and believed to be dying. The poet, overwhelmed with grief, wrote out the death of his son in the lovely verse, "Marcelle."

There is no sweeter place to dwell than here—Marcelle. Could angels love you half so well as I, Marcelle. There's not in heaven an angel bright could match your living eyes of light: God grant I'll never say good-night to you, Marcelle!

These poems of Stanton which have painted for the world a picture of the old-time south and the lovely sentiments of the old-time south appear to the heart of every true southerner. We Georgians find special beauty in these songs of our own state.

The star-crossed love and valleys sweet that Stanton wrote, and the sweetest of all, the old-time south, and the lovely sentiments of the old-time south appear to the heart of every true southerner. We Georgians find special beauty in these songs of our own state.

If I were only a poet! What can be said of those beautiful songs in prose? Precisely nothing! Yet, when one reads lines of poetry as heavy as these and they express in some manner the wave of feeling which floods one's mind, one is struck.

Stanton was a homebody. Homebody, yet an exile from home! A lowland South Carolinian, he came to live in the Georgia hills. Probably this is the reason there is found in many of his poems a strain of sadness and longing which is altogether beautiful. There are few more pathetic expressions of human longing for the old home than Stanton's "Harvest Song." "I shall not see the fields of life or reap in them again."

Came the fall. Our poet left us, to rest in an eternal realm of song, but though the physical man is gone and his glory shall shine in our minds the beauty of his creations remains. The last paper written by this master singer was "Nearer to Thee." It is fully as beautiful in thought and rhythm as Stanton's "Crossing the Bar."

They are singing, sweetly singing,
And the evening air is ringing,
"Nearer, oh my God, to Thee."

Yes, they say Stanton is dead, yet in it may be still lives wherever "Nearer to Thee" is sung. Most famous songs, are heard and sung. The fragrance of his wisdom, pathos and humor grows sweeter with the years.

Yea, they say Stanton is dead, yet in it may be still lives wherever "Nearer to Thee" is sung. Most famous songs, are heard and sung. The fragrance of his wisdom, pathos and humor grows sweeter with the years.

Bright Skies, High Mercury Seen for Today

Fair skies with temperatures on an upward trend and little or no wind is today's forecast for Georgia, as issued late Wednesday afternoon by C. E. von Herrmann, in charge of the federal weather bureau here.

While the meteorologist declined to predict beyond Thursday, he indicated that there is little possibility of rains during the next few days.

The temperatures which ranged here Wednesday from 44 to 73 degrees will move upward today to extremes between 60 and 78 degrees, Mr. von Herrmann predicted.

The week of May 1 was the only period favoring the cotton planter with dry weather, weather bureau records show.

ROCKEFELLER ASKS STEWART TO RESIGN

will wish to write me that this has been done.

"Very truly,

"JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR."

"I have taken the above action because I have lost confidence in Colonel Stewart's leadership and believe that the interests of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana can now best be served by his resignation. This action should not be construed as a pre-judgment on my part as to the issues involved in the legal proceedings now pending."

Colonel Stewart, when first called to testify before the senate committee in Washington, refused to answer questions beyond denying any knowledge of the Continental bond deal. Later Rockefeller was called and he told the committee that he was watching the situation closely. In his testimony and in subsequent correspondence which was made public, he revealed that he had discussed the matter with Colonel Stewart and had urged Stewart to resign.

Stewart, at that time, was quoted as having assured Rockefeller that he was acting for the best interests of the company and all concerned and was said to have promised Rockefeller that he would retire from the Standard Oil of Indiana should Rockefeller lose confidence in him.

Later Stewart appeared again before the committee at Washington but the testimony was contradictory of the evidence he first gave.

Rockefeller's demand for Stewart's resignation, it was revealed today, followed Stewart's correspondence which consisted of offering his resignation in a conversation with President Reuther, of the company, indicated he wished to lay the matter before the stockholders.

Appearing to the stockholders was a virtual challenge to Rockefeller for a test of strength and confidence, and Rockefeller, he was quick and determined in his acceptance of the challenge.

Since Colonel Stewart's testimony before the senate committee a stockholder's meeting of the Standard Oil of Indiana met but it developed at the time of the meeting that the Rockefeller stock holdings were not voted.

While the Standard Oil of Indiana is generally looked upon by the public as a concern principally owned by the Rockefellers, the facts are that Rockefeller himself directly owns or controls only 15 per cent of the total stock outstanding.

However, a large additional amount of stock, understood to be owned by stockholders who will follow Rockefeller on account of business associations. Just how large a holding that Rockefeller can represent, however, is not known.

Rockefeller, according to his own statement before the senate committee, owns 402,500 shares himself; there are 400,700 shares in the Standard Oil of Indiana, which, normally, Rockefeller can vote; and he also controls the vote of 500,000 shares held in a trust fund for the benefit of his sisters.

There is no recent record of the Stewart stockholdings, although they are not as large as the Rockefeller interests. The Rockefeller personal holdings, the Rockefeller foundation interest and the shares held in trust for Rockefeller's sisters, total 1,300,000 shares and constitute the largest single holding of stock in the company.

PROBE LEADERS COMMAND MOVE.

Washington, May 9.—(United News).—The action of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in seeking to oust Robert W. Stewart as head of the Standard Oil of Indiana for his connection with the profits of the Continental Trading company was endorsed tonight by two of the men who had most to do with unseating the facts.

Chairman Nye, of the senate Tea-Don't Committee, and Senator Walsh, of Montana, who conducted most of the inquiry, Senator Walsh was particularly gratified that this step followed upon the speech Tuesday of Judge Edwin B. Parker, chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, calling upon business to drive out its pirates and corruptors.

"Coming upon the heels of the ringing address of Judge Parker yesterday," Senator Walsh said, "I am hoping that at last the business world is waking up to the enormity of the offenses which have been revealed through the hearings of the committee on public lands."

"We are utterly at a loss in every sense if such conduct may pass unrebuked as well as unpunished."

Chairman Nye commented as follows: "I think Mr. Rockefeller is to be congratulated on the road with which he has taken. He has done what no right thinking man would insist ought to be done."

"There is probably some room for complaint that such action was not taken sooner."

"But business ethics may dictate that the proper course has been pursued by Mr. Rockefeller. I am happy that if what the investigating committee has done this winter has started a movement for a business cleanup on the part of all people of America, let us hope that the stockholders of the Standard Oil will find Mr. Rockefeller's attitude contagious. It has been surprising to me that stockholders of the various oil companies have directly involved in the Continental Trading company have not sought redress in the courts against the liberties taken by their officials which have the force of attempts to defraud their own stockholders."

Many Girls Are Anxious For "Miss Georgia" Role In Rhododendron Festival

Nominations Pour Into The Constitution for Selection of State Representative at Asheville.

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

Apparently there are many Georgia girls who want to serve as "Miss Georgia" at the big Rhododendron festival to be held at Asheville, N. C., June 4 to 9, judging from the way the nominations are coming into the Constitution office.

With all expenses paid and with a merry word of entertainment in store for the fortunate girl this is a prize that is certainly worth seeking.

The Asheville Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the Rhododendron festival, has asked The Constitution to pick out a Georgia girl to serve as sponsor for this state. There will be 15 other states represented and the winner will be picked from each of these states to act as sponsor. All the sponsors will be feted during the festival at Asheville during the festival.

The Constitution wants to find a girl who will "star" among the stars at this big event. There are lots of girls in Georgia who can do this and all that is necessary to enter the contest is to send a photograph of the girl to the Constitution office. All girls married or single, in the state.

Nominations Wanted.

If there's a girl capable of serving as "Miss Georgia" in any community in Georgia who can do this and all that is necessary to enter the contest is to send a photograph of the girl to the Constitution office. All girls married or single, in the state.

BODIES OF FIREMEN KILLED IN BLAZE ARE RECOVERED

Minneapolis, May 9.—(AP).—The bodies of two firemen who died at their posts were recovered early today.

While fighting a blaze which destroyed a two-story store and office building last night, the floor collapsed, throwing Captain William R. Madden and Archie N. Lawrence into a smoke-filled basement. The terrific heat balked all efforts at rescue for several hours. Death was due to asphyxiation. Four other firemen had their injuries treated at a hospital.

MAINE'S POTATO SHIPMENTS LEAD ALL OF STATES

CITY IS DISTRICTED
FOR D. A. V. APPEAL

With the city divided into districts and with teams at work in every district, the D. A. V. appeal fund campaign is well under way, according to a statement by Roy Gates, assistant chairman, at a meeting of the campaign commanders and captains Wednesday noon in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Mr. Gates stated in clearing up a popular misconception, that the work of the D. A. V. is in no way connected with that being carried on by the American Legion, and added that the officials of the D. A. V. had been assured of the cooperation and sympathy of the legion by the state commander of that organization, Asa W. Candler, Jr. A contribution of $150 has been made by a team from the legion to the D. A. V. fund.

Mr. Gates said that according to information from the veterans bureau only about 6,000 of the approximately 28,000 veterans in Georgia who are entitled to compensation have received settlement on their claims, leaving 22,000 men yet to be provided for. "It is apparent," said Mr. Gates, "that there is need for work upon the part of all the veterans' organizations if these men are to be provided for as they should be."

Charles F. Hoke, president of the Foreign Trade club, announced Wednesday noon that his organization would place a team of about 10 volunteer workers in the field under the captaincy of C. L. McLain and that these men would start active work immediately.

CONSTRUCTION BIDS
ASKED BY CRISP BODY

Cordele, Ga., May 9.—(Special).—The Crisp power commission this afternoon set out advertising for sealed proposals to be opened here on July 10, for the construction work on the Flint river power dam for the development of the power supply provided in the industrial program launched in this county three years ago.

These bids will be asked upon specifications which have been provided by the chief engineer, Emmett Killebrew, of Albany, and the consulting engineers, J. E. Sirrine and company, of Greenville, S. C. The bids will cover briefly 14,000 cubic yards of limestone excavation, 50,000 cubic yards of earth excavation, 230,000 cubic yards of earth fill dam, 25,000 cubic yards of class A reinforced concrete, 300 tons of structural steel, 1,000 tons of reinforcing steel, one brick building, 40 by 150 by 50 feet high, two 6,000 horsepower vertical over wheels and generators installed complete.

The commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

The plant is to be located on the site now owned by Crisp county near Warwick in Worth and Lee counties.

The bids are to be in the hands of the chairman of the commission, J. J. Williams, in time for opening on the morning of July 10 at 10 o'clock. In the meantime the progress of the work on the federal power license application goes on and there is every indication that this will be issued within a few days, making the way open for the actual beginning of work at the letting of the contract. The bids cover only half the capacity power units, four being planned in the final completion of the plant, totaling 14,000 horsepower.

The bonds issued for the plant and transmission lines amount to $1,250,000.

MRS. MCCURRY WINS
SUIT FOR DAMAGES
FOR LOSS OF SIGHT

Decatur, Ga., May 9.—(Special).—Mrs. Lissie Mae McCurry, of Virginia avenue, has been awarded $20,000 damages in a jury trial in DeKalb superior court for loss of sight in her left eye, said to have resulted from injuries received in February, 1927, when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by one driven by Rufus King, 14-year-old son of R. DeWitt King, of Springdale road. Mrs. McCurry sued for $50,000 damages.

Counsel for the plaintiff contended that Mrs. McCurry's machine was struck by the car driven by young King when she attempted to make a left turn into Peachtree street from Peachtree circle. Bits of flying glass from the windshield lodged in the socket of her left eye, severing an optic nerve and destroying the sight of the eye, it was alleged.

It also was held that Mrs. McCurry entering from the right side of Peachtree street, had the right of way, and that the King youth was below the age limit for automobile drivers in Georgia.

Mrs. McCurry was represented by Arnold and Arnold, and Attorneys E. P. Gambrell and Hugh Burgess. The defense was represented by the firm of Cobbitt and Conyers and Attorney Robert Ramapack.

Judge John B. Hutcheson presided at the special civil division sessions.

Valdosta, Ga., May 9.—(Special).—Earl Buckner, a painter, working for the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad, was seriously burned this afternoon from contact with a high tension electric wire.

Buckner, while at work in the yards, unwittingly caught the wire in his hand, the shock throwing him to the ground with great force while his arms and hands were most painfully burned. The injured man was hurried to a local hospital, where he is being treated.

DOUGLAS IS CHOSEN

INJURED BY AUTO

Valdosta, Ga., May 9.—Dr. E. P. Quillian, prominent Clayetteville physician who was injured in an automobile collision Monday morning in this city, is yet in a local hospital. It is believed that he will recover without serious after-effects. Though at first it was feared that he might have suffered internal injuries,

Boys' High School Orchestra Will Give Concert Tonight

Presenting one of the most pretentious programs of the local observance of National Music week, the Boys' High School orchestra will give a concert at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the Atlanta Woman's club.

Under direction of Gaines W. Walter, conductor, the orchestra will feature a program presenting the complete symphonic score of Offenbach's "Orpheus in the Underworld" and "Bedouin Love Song," with Preston H. Epps, baritone.

A woodwind quartet, composed of Conwell Shoup, flute; Dwight Goldsby, oboe; Edward Kane, clarinet, and Warren Rhodes, bassoon, will present the Indian love call from "Rose Marie," and Joseph Glaser, concert master, will give a violin solo "Liebestreu."

Selections from "My Maryland" and the complete symphonic score of the marches and cortege from "La Reine de Saba," also will be featured on the program. A string quartet composed of Joseph Glaser, first violin; Mack Wooten, second violin; Hyman Kraar, viola, and Nicholas Chotas, violoncello, will present a series of numbers.

Gray Veterans At Little Rock Praise Walker

Little Rock, Ark., May 9.—(AP)—Avoiding reference to criticism drawn by his act, United Confederate Veterans and Forrest Calvary, a famous group of veterans, at their reunion here today praised Mayor Jimmie Walker, of New York, for appointing a descendant of General Robert E. Lee on the reception committee which greeted the transatlantic Bremen liners in New York.

Both likewise lauded the New York executive for his participation in the dedication of Stone Mountain Memorial to the Confederacy and the main organization of veterans authorized appointment of a committee to convey personally to him an expression of the esteem in which they hold him.

Cheered to Echo.

Mayor Walker's name was cheered to an echo when Adjutant General Harry Rene Lee, of Nashville, Tenn., presented the resolution to the veterans. Its adoption was followed by a loud demonstration. After a day crowded with ceremonies, the veterans, together with Sons of Veterans and other affiliated organizations, tonight turned from the more serious matters before them to make merry at the annual grand Confederate ball.

Many of them were unable to take part, however, because of their age. The excitement of the reunion already is having its effects upon the men who fought for the Confederacy more than 60 years ago. More than 400 of them already have visited the hospital camp at Camp Foster for some sort of treatment. In most cases it was for exhaustion. None of the cases was serious.

Welcoming Addresses.

While the veterans sat through more welcoming addresses, with the Walker resolution virtually the only matter of business to be taken up, Sons of Confederate Veterans plunged into the business awaiting disposition. Reports of officers consumed a large part of the day. Two reports, that of the commander in chief, S. L. Lowry, of Tampa, Fla., and that of the relief committee, urged greater efforts by the sons to have southern states increase pensions for veterans and widows. A resolution was presented providing that efforts to have other states adopt Arkansas' pension law be made.

Stone Mountain Costs.

Mr. Lowry's report also proposed a movement to have individual southern states assume the cost of carving the statues of five representatives of each on Stone Mountain, at Atlanta, Ga., and that the Stone Mountain association enlarge its representation. Forrest cavalry, holding its annual reunion today, was greeted by the appearance of a granddaughter of General Nathan Bedford Forrest, their leader. She is Mrs. Mary Forrest Bradley, of Memphis, Tenn.

Atlanta, Ga., and Charlotte, N. C., were the only known contenders for the 1929 Confederate reunion.

The suggestion of Mr. Lowry is in line with suggestions that have been voiced in a number of other southern states and also in line with the ultimate plans of the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association, it was stated by a representative Wednesday night.

Present plans are to complete the central group, comprising the high command of the Confederate forces, and then the memorial hall with funds to be raised by the association. Then the association has in contemplation aid of southern states in completing the general panorama, central figures of which will be five heroes selected by each southern state. These five figures from each state, it is planned, will stand out in the great group of infantrymen, cavalrymen and artillerymen, who will complete the great memorial to the "Lost Cause."

EFFICIENT THIEVES LOOT THREE STORES ON SAME STREET

Thorough-going burglars systematically looted one section of Confederate avenue when they entered adjoining stores at numbers 722, 726 and 728, some time Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning. Entrance was gained in each case by removing the glass from the front door, it was reported to police.

The Mitchell lunch room, at 722, lost a considerable amount of tobacco to thieves. W. H. Dickens' store, at 726, also had supplies of cigarettes and cigars stolen, while H. T. Sears reports the loss of $5 cash and about $25 worth of tobacco from his store, at 728.

NORMAN ADDRESSES MERCHANTS' BOARD

R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner, Wednesday addressed the board of directors of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association at the luncheon meeting at the Atlanta Athletic club. Mr. Norman outlined his views upon a revision of the state taxation system with a view to bringing intangibles to the tax books and equalizing the present heavy burden which he said was borne by real estate and tangibles.

A representative gathering of Atlanta mercantile business interests attended the board luncheon and heard Mr. Norman's ideas concerning the state's system of tax levying.

Child Is Killed, Another Injured In 2 Accidents

One child was killed and another slightly injured Wednesday in two accidents, one involving a locomotive and the other an automobile. Two other victims of accidents during the latter part of last week Wednesday were still confined to local hospitals and both were reported to be in serious condition.

Shortly after he had wandered from his mother's side Wednesday morning, Haywood, 15-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hayes, of Mountain View, was struck by the northbound Central of Georgia train, which passes Mountain View about 10 o'clock, according to the child's father, who found the infant's lifeless body beside the tracks shortly after the train had passed.

Unaware of Accident.

The crew of the train on arrival in Atlanta stated that they were unaware that the child had been hit until informed of the tragedy by yard officials. A checkup in the Atlanta yards of the coaches and engine which had made up the train showed no evidence of the accident.

Funeral services will be held in the chapel of the Brandon & Williams undertaking establishment at Hapeville at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Burial will be in the College Park Memorial cemetery.

Knocked down and slightly injured Wednesday afternoon at East Fair and Gibson streets by an automobile, Stella Harper, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harper, 414 Gibson street, S. E., was released from Grady hospital after treatment. No case was made against C. D. Wiler, of 72 Ormond street, driver of the car which struck the girl.

According to police, the parents said the accident was unavoidable. The condition of M. P. Hamilton, who was injured Saturday night in an auto accident, was still regarded as serious as late hour Wednesday night, according to advice from the Grady hospital. Mr. Hamilton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Hamilton, of Montezuma, Ga., have been at their son's bedside almost continuously since Sunday.

STATE COMMISSION PRESCRIBES RATES ON ROAD MIXTURES

Freight rates on roadway material mixtures shipped in Georgia were prescribed in an order issued Wednesday by the Georgia public service commission.

The order came as a result of a petition from shippers desiring fixed rates on a mixture of asphalt, crushed stone, and lime, to be shipped direct from point of manufacture to construction site and laid without further processing, declared James A. Perry, commission chairman.

"One company now operates a large plant of this character in North Carolina," said Mr. Perry, "and they propose to establish one or more plants in Georgia."

DR. CARTER JONES WILL LEAVE TODAY ON SOUTHERN TOUR

Dr. Carter Helm Jones, pastor of the Second Baptist church, leaves today for New Orleans in the course of an extended southern tour during which he will address several graduating classes. His itinerary includes an address at the Baptist Bible institute, at New Orleans; attendance at the Southern Baptist convention, in Chattanooga, and an address to the graduating class at Auburn, Ala., on May 20.

Dr. Jones also addresses the Sixth District Agriculture school at Barnesville on May 22, and will deliver the commencement sermon for Georgia Tech in the Second Baptist church on June 10.

New Sentence Is Given Negro Who Has Served 39 Years as Convict

Ernest Wright, a negro, who is 59 years old and has spent all but 20 years of his life serving prison sentences, received a new sentence Wednesday in the Fulton superior court. Convicted on a burglary charge the negro was sentenced to serve from 6 to 16 years by Judge G. H. Howard. Wright recently escaped from the chain gang where he was serving out one of his numerous sentences. He told the court he "just could not help stealing." He has been convicted nearly a dozen times on burglary and theft charges.

How To Absorb An Ugly Complexion

An old, worn or blemished complexion can be easily changed to one of youthful loveliness by the daily use of pure medicated wax. Its natural absorbent power, the withered, faded or discolored skin is quickly fluffed off in tiny particles, until the entire defective surface has been removed. The under skin is revealed, soft, white and radiant, free of all defects, such as tan, liver spots, pimples, freckles, etc. Moreover, it brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines, use as face lotion 1 ounce powdered azoicite and 1 half pint witch-hazel—(adv.)

GAME DEPARTMENT ATLANTA B. P. O. E. ASKS PRESERVATION OF STATE WILD LIFE AT LUNCH TODAY

As part of a policy established by Atlanta Elks in entertaining progressive civic organizations from time to time, the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be tendered a luncheon at 12:15 o'clock today by lodge No. 78, B. P. O. E., at its chapter house, 723 Peachtree street.

Similar luncheons already have been given the Masonic club, the Citizens club, the Secretaries club and the Lions club. Dr. Herbert B. Kennedy, excused ruler, and B. G. Broyles, secretary of the lodge, will be in charge of the program. A musical entertainment will be provided.

Following the recent excessive rainfall, and the resultant overflow of many of the streams, particularly in the middle and lower parts of Georgia, the state game and fish department is making an appeal to people all over Georgia to give unusual attention to the preservation of the natural habitat of wild life.

There are two particular menaces to the homes nature provides for many of the birds and animals—what are commonly called "freshets" and forest fires, and these two menaces to which the game and fish department is directing particular attention this week.

It is not at all uncommon at this time of the year, and it has been more than usually true this year, the department says, that high water, overflow of streams, the flooding of those lands which ordinarily furnish the cover spots which ground birds seek are made unfit for nesting.

Under the present methods of intensive farming, too, when all available land is being cultivated, the spare inch of ground left, so to speak, there is little of the natural cover left for birds.

"Leave a little undergrowth in spots around the farm; cultivate them if necessary." That is the suggestion of the state game and fish department.

PLANE PASSENGER IS PILOTED HERE BY FORMER 'BUDDIE'

When the St. Tammany-Gulf Coast Airways plane left Birmingham Tuesday afternoon it contained a passenger in the cabin who, unknown to himself, was being piloted by a former member of his flying squadron in France.

Though the passenger, Edison Counts, once a naval aviator, now a prominent business man of Birmingham, knew a competent man was in charge of the plane, he never learned of the previous association until the ship landed at Candler field.

The cabin monoplane was built with a passenger inclosure and Counts said the pilot for the first time as he stepped from the ship.

The latter was H. L. Merrill, crack pilot with the Gulf Coast Airways, who served in France with Counts when both of them were attached to the night daylight bombing squadron at Dunkirk, in 1918.

It was the first time they had seen each other since the armistice, and the reunion was a happy one. While mechanics stood waiting to wheel the plane into its hangar, these two wartime buddies discussed old times together and traded information about members of the squadron they had heard of since the war.

Now You Can Reduce 2 to 4 Lbs. in a Night

Eat what you please
Wear what you please
Do what you please
Take no risky medicine

Thousands of smart women have found this easy way to take off 2 to 4 pounds once or twice a week. These women take refreshing Fayro baths in the privacy of their own homes.

Fayro is the concentrate of the same natural mineral salts that make effective the waters of twenty-two hot springs of America, England and Continental Europe. For years the spas and hot springs bathing resorts have been the retreat of fair women and well-groomed men.

Excess weight has been removed, skins have been made more lovely, bodies more shapely and minds brighter.

The Hot Springs Are Now Brought to You

Paintstaking analyses of the active ingredients of the water from twenty-two of the most famous springs have taught us the secret of their effectiveness. You can now have all these benefits in your own bath. Merely put Fayro into your hot bath. It dissolves rapidly. You will notice and enjoy the pungent fragrance of its balsam oils and clean salts.

Then, Fayro, by opening your pores and stimulating perspiration forces lax body cells to sweat out surplus fat and bodily poisons. Add Fayro to your bath at night and immediately you will lose from 2 to 4 pounds in an easy, refreshing and absolutely harmless manner.

Your physician will tell you that Fayro is certain to do the work and that it is absolutely harmless.

Fayro will refresh you and help your body throw off worn-out fat and bodily poisons. Your skin will be clearer and smoother. You will sleep better after your Fayro bath and awaken feeling as though you had enjoyed a week's vacation.

LOSE WEIGHT WHERE YOU MOST WANT TO

Fayro reduces weight generally, but you can also concentrate its effect on abdomen, hips, legs, ankles, chin or any part of the body you may wish.

Results Are Immediate

Weigh yourself before and after your Fayro bath. You will find you have lost from 2 to 4 pounds. And a few nights later when you again add Fayro to your bath, you will once more reduce your weight. Soon you will be the correct weight for your height. No need to deny yourself good food you want. No need for violent exercise. No need for drugs or medicines. Merely a refreshing Fayro bath in the privacy of your own home.

Try Fayro at Our Risk

The price of Fayro is $1.00 a package. Inside each package you get an interesting booklet, "Health and Open Pores."

If you are not satisfied with Fayro, we will refund your money without a question. No risk.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

BLACK PUSSY BECOMES INTERESTED.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Your neighbors' troubles and their pain. Sometimes may prove to be your gain. —BLACK PUSSY.

That isn't nice to think of, is it? But some people don't mind thinking about it and are inclined to take advantage of it. That is the way a lot of people get along in this world—taking advantage of the troubles of others.

Black Pussy the Cat isn't above this. Goodness, no! The moment she heard Sammy Jay begin to scream, she picked up her ears, then, when she heard all the other birds in the Old Orchard adding their screams to Sammy's, she got to her feet, yawned, stretched and then trotted in that soft-footed way of hers over to where she could see what was going on. Almost right away she saw that the feathered folk were darning at something in the grass. Black Pussy stood forward swiftly. Every few feet she would stop to look and listen. All the time she kept crouched as close to the ground as she could.

"I don't know what it is all about," thought Black Pussy, "but I do know that those silly birds are so occupied that they are not keeping watch at all. They sound as if they were in trouble of some sort. If they are, it will be all the easier for me. I certainly ought to get a good bird dinner out of this."

Now, it was true that the birds were so occupied that not one of them had thought to look out for a black pussy. They could think of nothing but Mr. Blacksnake and no one had eyes for anything else. So it was that Black Pussy managed to creep very near.

They Did Everything They Could to Keep Him From Climbing that Tree.

as near as they are to him, I would have one and have it quick."

Perhaps Black Pussy was right. It did look as if some of those birds were possessed to get as close as they could to Mr. Blacksnake. He had partly coiled and the birds had gathered around. Every once in a while, one would dart down at him—especially Sammy Jay—but poor Mrs. Welcome Robin seemed paralyzed. It was just as if she couldn't tear herself away. I suppose some folks would have said that she was charmed. She fluttered about as if she were helpless. Every instant Black Pussy expected to see Mr. Blacksnake seize her.

But that charming was not real charming. Mrs. Welcome was not paralyzed with fear. She was pretending. Although she looked to be within easy striking distance of Mr. Blacksnake, she was really just a wee bit beyond sure striking distance. She was pretending to be helpless. Mr. Blacksnake knew it just as well as she did. She was trying to fool him, but he wasn't being fooled. She was fooling Black Pussy, but she wasn't fooling Mr. Blacksnake. Not once did he try to catch her. Black Pussy couldn't understand it.

Presently Mr. Blacksnake moved on. At the foot of the tree in which was Welcome Robin's nest, he paused. Then slowly he began to climb. Well come and Mrs. Robin were frantic. They brushed against him. They tried to get in his way. But he was too strong for them. He kept climbing that tree.

Suddenly Sammy Jay discovered Black Pussy. Instantly he flew down at her and the other birds joined him. Black Pussy was glad to turn tail and sneak back to Farmer Brown's dooryard.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS MEET AT WAYCROSS

DAWSON KIWANIS TO HOLD LADIES' NIGHT THURSDAY

Dawson, Ga., May 9.—(Special.)—The Kiwanis club will be hosts at a ladies' night meeting Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the Ford building on North Main street. ### SCHOOL DISTRICT RENAMED IN HONOR OF J. CHAMBLISS

Americus, Ga., May 9.—The Sumter county board of education, honoring the late Jesse Chambliss, has ordered the name of Pleasant Grove school district changed to Chambliss district. Chambliss was a pioneer friend of Sumter's rural school system and donated the land upon which the school building there is located besides contributing liberally to the erection of the original school structure. Chambliss school district embraces a populous and fertile area surrounding Merwin's store, 12 miles northeast of Americus, and the school there is one of the most important consolidated institutions in the county. The school has a student enrollment of 65 and Professor J. E. Burgess is principal.

HOME ECONOMICS OFFICE CONTINUED IN SUMTER COUNTY

Americus, Ga., May 9.—Following the appearance of Miss Rosa McGee before the Sumter county board of education here, the county school authorities and the board of county commissioners formally agreed to continue the office of home economics agent in this county during the ensuing year. The county commissioners agreed to provide $750 of the salary to be paid and a like sum will be provided by the county school board.

The remaining necessary funds will be provided by the State College of Agriculture cooperating with the federal government and the work will be continued under direction of state college authorities. Following conclusion of the agreement to continue this work the county school board voted to retain Mrs. Edith O'Brien Ward in charge of the office as heretofore.

CRIME FASHIONS CHANGE, PRISON OFFICIAL AVERS

Memphis, May 9.—(AP)—While "fashions" in crime have changed, there is no crime wave in the sense that the crime rate is higher, Dr. George W. Kirehway, former warden of Sing Sing prison and professor in the New York School of Social Work, said in an address today at the closing session of the national conference of social work.

"The crimes we read about today," he said, "seem far worse than those of our younger years, just as 'necking' with which I am not familiar, seems vastly more terrible than 'sparking' with which I am familiar; just as the automobile seems vastly more immoral than the old fashioned buggy; just as the short skirts seem more immoral than the bustle."

The fifty-sixth annual conference will be held in San Francisco next year.

DIET AND HEALTH

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

THE INTESTINAL FLORA AND MILK.

By the intestinal flora is meant the millions of germs or microscopic plants that are always in the lower intestines, and are normal and apparently have some relation to the chemistry of digestion. However, when the putrefactive type predominates, harmful reactions result, and it becomes necessary to get rid of them. The putrefactive type is liable to develop in too large numbers, when excessive amounts of flesh foods are eaten and the bowel movements are not normal.

Besides the inclusion of more milk with its lactic acid or friendly germs, more fruits and vegetables should be eaten, and other measures to combat constipation employed.

Metchnikoff, who worked with the Bulgarians, believed that their longevity was due to the effects of their diet, which contained large amounts of milk artificially soured with the bacillus bulgaricus. Now the acidophilus bacillus is having its day. It does seem to be a little more active in combating putrefaction; even better than the bulgaricus.

The lactic acid and acidophilus are types of lactic acid bacilli. And they are good—there's no doubt—but don't forget the ordinary lactic acid bacteria, which are present in milk, are also beneficial.

The lactic acid germs thrive on the sugar of the milk, and in cases where it is necessary to change the intestinal flora, extra sugar of milk is given, to help the propagation of these germs. It mustn't be forgotten that not all the acidophilus germs are good. Its biologically complete protein building and repair element in food, and its liberal supply of calcium—which is the ordinary American diet is deficient in—are big reasons why we should take milk in some form—cheese, curd, buttermilk, etc., every day.

Cure Alls.

A short time ago, I ran the following article:

"There is one thing you want to realize about spinal 'adjustments,' and it is this: If segments of the spine can be pushed into place, they can also be pushed out of place, and pressure on the spinal cord resulting in paralysis or death might result."

"If you want to read of some cases of permanent injury and deaths caused by such work, go to your library and get a copy of the October 31, 1922, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association; read Dr. Edward Blaine's article on 'Manipulative Dislocations of the Spine.'"

A few thought this article was directed to the osteopathic profession. It was not. It was directed to the horde of uneducated and unprepared practitioners who claim that all disease is due to subluxations of the spine and pressure of the spinal nerves, and that they can be cured by relief of that pressure.

Sooner or later there is going to be demanded of all schools that teach the healing art the same standard that is demanded by the medical colleges: four years of training in the special college (for it takes at least four years to get the basic sciences that are necessary to practice the healing art), followed by a year's internship in a hospital; and graduation from an accredited high school and at least two years of work in an accredited college, as a matriculation requirement in the special college. Then the title of "Doctor" will assure the patient that he is dealing with a broadly educated, scientific, highly-trained practitioner, who perhaps is specializing in one branch of the healing art. Then the serious results such as referred to in Dr. Blaine's article will not result.

Tomorrow: Hives.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and two cents in coin for each article to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, 10 cents in coin with fully s. a. s. e. must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

PALMER GRANDSON ELOPES AND WEDS FLORIDA GIRL, 16

Sarasota, Fla., May 9.—(AP)—The "runaway" marriage Tuesday of Potter D'Oresy Palmer, 23, grandson of the late Mrs. Potter Palmer, of Chicago, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Honore Palmer, to Miss Eleanor Goldsmith, 16, of Sarasota, was announced here today.

The ceremony was performed at Fort Meade by a justice of the peace after the couple had chased to various points in the state in a successful effort to elude telegrams dispatched from here to several county judges asking them not to issue a license.

Young Palmer, who is said to be of an adventurous type, has been serving as a game warden in Sarasota county for several years. Last summer he was bitten by an insect while he was hunting in Africa, with his parents and was ill for some time in a Paris hospital.

The telegraphic efforts to halt the marriage were made by John J. Burker, local attorney for Palmer's parents, through County Judge Arthur Clark, of Sarasota county.

The bride is a daughter of E. V. Goldsmith, an employee of a local water company. Palmer and his wife returned to Sarasota this morning and they planned to meet his parents in Chicago next week before starting on a European trip.

Tech Track and Tennis Stars Off for Conference Battles

Jackets Send Strong Teams To Two Meets

Ed Hamm, Record-Breaking Jumper, Will Lead Tech Cinder Path Artists.

BY ROGER PAGE.
With hopes high after the showing made against the Georgia Bulldogs in the dual meet last week, the Georgia Tech track squad, composed of twenty odd men, will entrain this afternoon for Birmingham, where it will enter the southern conference meet on May 11.

The Jackets will have as their main attraction Ed Hamm, record holder of the southern conference broad jump, who secured the world's record in this event last week in hurling his body through the air for a distance of 25 feet 14 inches. In the 220-yard dash, being a 10-second man.

Frank Nash, another star who carried off first-place honors in the recent Tech relay in the pole vault event, will be one of the main entries of the Tech squad. He has won recognition several times in clearing the bar, and should be one of the great winners for the Jackets Friday.

Leading Stars.
Ernest Kontz, one of the smoothest runners seen on Grant field in some time, will be entered in the 440-yard run. "Shaw" Coker and Jack Swain will do the high jumping for Tech.

Both are exceptional jumpers, and should easily place in the meet. It looks as if the Jackets are sure winners of the broad-jump event. Along with Ed Hamm, Phil Von Weller and George Sprick will do some jumping themselves. Von Weller carried off first-place honors in the state meet this week with Sprick close behind him. Hamm will, no doubt, take first place, and if the last two aerodynamic jumpers repeat some of their feats of this year Georgia Tech will be given all places in the broad jump.

"Pop" Hood and "Horn" Horn will handle the discus and shot in the field events. Hood and Horn have won first places in recent meets and should go well in the conference meet in Birmingham. Hood will also put the shot for the Jackets.

The track squad for the Jackets is the best in a number of years. Coach Hal Barron, former Olympic man, has made this team from hard work on his part. After making a good record in the southern relays, the squad was sent up against the Georgia Tech team in a close season. Against the University of Georgia Bulldogs the Jackets carried off an unusually large number of first places, to win the meet by a large majority of points.

Win State Meet.
The Jackets also carried off the honors of the day when the Georgia state meet was held this week at Emory university, leading the field by winning ten out of the twelve events on the card.

Coach Barron has announced that he will take 20 men on the Birmingham trip, these being "Frog" Bell, Jimmy Boyd, Roy Brewer, Bill Calhoun, George Coffey, "Shaw" Coker, "Dutch" Faison, Ed Hamm, F. L. Hicks, "Pop" Hood, Bob Horn, Ernest Kontz, Frank Nash, Rock Rowe, "Shag" Roberts, Jack Swain, George Sprick, Phil Von Weller, "Red" Wajace, and Tom Wright. "Porter," the old star who has been on the campus about 20 years, looking after the condition of the boys, will make the trip also, it being considered "good luck" to have "Porter" along.

TECH NET STARS OFF FOR TOURNEY.

With a record of having not lost a conference match during the entire season before it, the Georgia Tech tennis squad left Thursday night for New Orleans to compete in the Southern Conference tennis meet Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The Jackets are entering one of the

Bill Mehlhorn Shoots 71 to Lead Tournament

Sandwich, England, May 9.—(AP)—"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, not the least bit wild, led the field home today in the first round of the British open golf championship with a sensational 71, and Gene Sarazen, another North American homebred, was just behind his playmate with 72.

The Americans had it for the moment, for in third place was Jose Jurado, undersized pro from Buenos Aires, with 74.

The day's play gave another smashing blow to Britain's belief that linksmen from the sunshine belt of the new world are at a disadvantage in battling icy winds of British blustery seaside courses.

George Duncan, Sid Wingate, Archie Compston and Percy Alliss are in a tie with Walter Hagen for fourth place with scores of 75. Of the British challengers Duncan has been made the favorite, particularly if winter fingers, for this is the sort of weather which often has inspired the Scottish star and today he played well throughout.

Plenty of 80s.
Three American pros in the early 80s, Tommy Armour and Jim Barnes, at 81, and Bob Stuppel with 82 had plenty of company.

Jokey McHugh, the California amateur, after going up like a rocket on the first nine, when he used only 35, came down like a stick on the second, when he needed 44 to get home, but his 79 placed him in a tie with T. A. Torrance and Charles O. Hedley for the lead among the dozen amateurs in the field.

The Americans who failed to place among the leaders found the troubles on the greens. McHugh, after taking seven putts on the first six holes used six on the last two, four of them on the seventeenth.

Old Tricks.
Armour was up to his old trick of changing putters. He used one today that resembled a driver with a wooden head with concave face and weighted toe and heel. Sarazen made masterful use of his putter from just off the greens and seemed to be able to lay the ball dead from any distance under 25 yards.

Hose by Alie Mitchell probably was the greatest disappointment to the British. He seemed never able to profit by the chances that came his way. Compston, out in 38, made a remarkable recovery over the long and difficult homeward journey and finally kept ahead of Hagen, with whom he was tied in the qualifying score.

Jean Gassiat, Stewart Burns and Fred Figgatt tied at 76. Ted Ray, T. H. Cotton, A. J. Young, Tom Barber and Tom Williamson had 77 and Harry Vardon was in a tie with Mitchell at 78.

In addition to the three amateurs who scored 79, three well-known pros returned that figure. James Braid, Fred Robson and Aubrey Boomer.

Douglas Grant, the former California amateur, now a resident of London, had 80.

Arthur Havers, who broke the string of American victories in the open in 1923, was in the same column occupied by Armour and Barnes, with 81.

Strongest field ever assembled in the south, having as opponents all the leading colleges in this section of the country.

Captain "Doc" Wee, a member of the famous Mory and Grant combination, will again be one of the strong hitters. Mory is one of the present time, and will probably reach the finals in the New Orleans matches.

The invading squad consists of "Doc" Wee, Mory, George Lewis, Syd Goldin and "Red" Williamson. All of the players have been turning in exceptionally good cards this season and should go well in the conference matches.

The net men have scored victories over the Augusta Country club, Davidson college, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia and North Carolina. With such a record before them, these Jackets tennis men should cause quite a bit of trouble in the matches this week.

Bill Mehlhorn Plays Splendidly in High Winds To Shoot a 71 and Lead.

Sandwich, Eng., May 9.—This has been another American day in British golf.

The odds after the first round of the British open championship now favor America, retaining the title won by Bobby Jones in 1926 and 1927, and held by our players in six of the last seven years.

The jackets have gone through the entire season with only one defeat on their record, and that to the strong Yale quartet. The University of Pennsylvania and Princeton were both downed by the playing of the Tech men, besides the Universities of Georgia, Alabama, Florida and North Carolina.

Along with Watts will be Joe H. Williams, Merriam Irwin and Charlie Brumby. All of these are exceptional golfers, and the jacket contingent will probably be one of the hardest to overcome in the meet.

Miscalculations.
British critics who expected the wind would be the American's ally, the English channel, miscalculated. Our men beat into the wind better than the British.

It was particularly impressive me. He was playing directly behind me. After having out I had opportunity to watch Bill hit a number of seconds. He was certainly hanging them up on the greens, judging the wind nicely and hitting hard enough to hold a putt.

He missed two very short putts going out. If Bill can keep this up, he will be hard to beat, the way he is hitting the ball.

There was one real disaster among the Americans, when Tommy Armour took an 81. Tommy had four threes on his card, but his terrible scores at other holes. He could not keep some of his long shots on the line, was repeatedly being troubled getting out. He had three sixes and six fives. Eighty-one is quite far back of the leader, but with three rounds to go ground can be made up.

Duncan started on the Kent course in 1920 with such a score and you out.

"Poverty in Britain."
The British players did not do so well today as their supporters wished. Anthony Spalding, a London golf writer, told me that the most depressing thing about the British scorecard was with Mehlhorn and Sarazen at the top, and so many of the British players in the middle of the pack.

He said the board showed that "poverty" still prevails in the land of British golf.

Other British critics told me they sincerely hope the affair at St. Anne's would not be repeated. At St. Anne's the British finished in front in four positions.

As nearly everyone has had something to say concerning international golf, I thought I would tell you today, inasmuch as Bill led the field. He said he thought the Americans were becoming more and more competitive in America, which keeps the professionals on edge and in form virtually 12 months in the year.

George Duncan is a confident of the British competitors after the first day's play. He did 75, which he said was a very good score, but he said he was not sure he was in the best of his form.

Keith, Black Flyer, Wisdum and Oregon Fig were unable to hold the pace and finished out of the top ten. Earlier in the day other derby colts were given trials over the Downs track.

Round Trip, the Coldstream stud stable's son of Sunningborough, showed the best move of the morning, stepping a mile in 1:43 2-5 hands.

Bar None, of the Longridge stable, was opened up for half a mile in 2:20 2-5, while Harrier's Dixie breezed three-eighths in 36.

Breeding Along.
The Fair Play filly Sandrine, from the Three D's stable, eligible for both the Derby and Oaks, was bred three-quarters in 1:19 3-5, stepping the half in 35.

Bonnie, a daughter of the Camden handicap at Lexington, was out again under the direction of Trainer Everman and was timed for the mile in 2:25 2-5, 1:48 4-5, 1:15, 1:42 2-5.

Reproduce, Derby colt purchased recently by W. E. Smith, member of the new Kentucky state racing commission, was bred three-quarters in 1:19 4-5.

Peter Gavuzzi, Southampton, England, elapsed leader, Andrew Payne, Clarendon, Ohio, Gavuzzi's nearest competitor, and Louis Perrella, Albany, N. Y., finished in a dead heat for third place in 6:30 2-4.

Gavuzzi's elapsed time is 421:02:06; Payne's 421:11:20, and Perrella's 421:45:13.

Frank von Flue, Korman, Calif., was sixth, 6:43:10; 2:22:40:18.

Harry Abramowitz, New York, seventh, 7:05:59; 6:04:15:24.

Carl Laven, Los Angeles, eighth, 7:05:59; 6:04:15:24.

The Next Inn

I came to an inn for a day or two, And "Earth" is the name I read; Till soon start out on the road again, Where the next inn stands ahead; Though part of it is a stay-at-home, Where the play will hold me fast, There's another part that will ride the sky Where the last lost winds go drifting by Until all time is past.

I'm here at the inn for a week or so, But where does the next inn wait? I only know it's a long, long way Through the wall that has no gate; And I'll say to the clerk who makes me sign My name with a ghostly pen—"Have you got a room with an outside view? I am only here for a day or two, And then I must leave again."

The Lighthouse Revival
It has been what you might—call it a far cry to the days of McAluffie, Lavigne, Gans, McGovern, Erne, Nelson, Wolgast and, later, Benny Leonard.

But if you check through the lightweight division you will find it has been carried, on an average, far more ring class than the heavyweight section has known in the last 20 years. There have been soggy spots in the heavyweight road, but up to Leonard's retirement the lightweight average among the kings of the division has been remarkably high.

In the last two or three years the lightweight division has been in a fog. George McFarlane, the titled holder, decided to crawl into a safe and take his crown with him. He would let no real rival have a shot at his coronet unless said rival was overweight.

For all that, Mandell can use both hands and feet with first-class ability. He isn't any lumbering pushover, as Sid Terris was. This pair should be another type of show.

WHO SAID
"WANING INTEREST?"
Dear Sir: I've heard time and again that baseball interest was slipping, but figure out this part of it—there are more baseball leagues in operation this season than baseball ever knew. Last year there were 27. This spring there are 32. These 32 leagues cover every section of the country, and there are more in five different leagues, and there are at least 30 former Texas performers drawing pay from the two major leagues.

Baseball seems to have slipped because so many other sports have grown and gathered popularity. But in place of slipping, baseball has been growing from year to year. It is the one game where the smaller towns are growing and send out more stars than the larger cities. E. J.

ONE
ANSWER.
"Just what is 'sportsmanship,' anyway?" asks a reader.

It is something that a fellow doesn't know inherently, what is little use in trying to prove it by any definition.

"Don't be too sure," suggests L. F. T., "that Charley Padlock will make the next Olympic team. Borah recently won along in 9:25 against Wykoff has done 9:55. Hussey will be at his best—another nine-three man. Stannum, of Ohio State, will be in the same class. There are several others one might mention. Padlock is a great runner, but he is running with 28-year-old legs against 21 and 22-year-old legs. Stanning comes with time, but speed belongs to youth."

Perhaps. But it will take some fact-finding to keep Padlock off the team. He has already done nine-four, and he is better than the 200-meter sprint than the 100. And there happens to be a flock of determined driving power back of his flying heels.

Southern Conference Tennis Tourney Today

New Orleans, May 9.—(AP)—The battle for the southern conference tennis championship will open tomorrow morning with 10 institutions represented by their most expert racket wielders.

Malon Courts, of the University of Georgia, southern tennis champion, and his teammates, William Legwen, Joseph Boland and Hamilton Napier, representing the University of Georgia, arrived today to enter the tournament.

The winning doubles team of last year, consisting of Berry Grant and E. B. Merry, of Georgia Tech, will not defend their title, as Grant is no longer attending Tech. Merry, however, will play on the Tech team again.

Schools represented are University of Georgia, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, University of Florida, Sewanee, University of North Carolina, University of Alabama, University of Mississippi, Louisiana State university and Tulane.

Vanderbilt is expected to make an excellent showing and favored by some to win the championship. Its singles and doubles, Donald Crum is the school's stellar light in solo playing and in doubles. He will have McVay, of L. S. U., defeated Covington and Merritt, 6-4, but Captain Waddell and Lee Wilson beat Hackett and Leo Gold, of the Tigers, 6-1, 6-1.

Slattery Wins by K. O.
Stanford, Pa., May 9.—(AP)—Jim Slattery, of Emory, knocked out Stanley Smith, of Sandusky, Ohio, in the second round of a 10-round bout at Bradford Junction, N. Y., here tonight. Slattery weighed 103 and Smith 178.

England's Four Best Golfers In U. S. Open
New York, May 9.—(United News.)—Four of England's best golfers—Archie Compston, Abe Mitchell, George Duncan and Aubrey Boomer—will tee off in the national open championship at Olympia fields, Chicago, June 21, the United States Golf association announced today. Ten places have been set aside for foreign entrants without competing them to qualify.

Australia will be represented by R. G. Stewart, professional and professional champion, and the British amateurs will have R. R. Burton of the Royal Wimbeldon Golf club, of London, as their entry.

George Von Elm, of the Rancho Golf club, Los Angeles, amateur champion in 1925, has entered the open championship and will play in the qualifying round at the Detroit Country club, June 11.

N. C. U. TRACK SQUAD LEAVES FOR S. C. MEET
Chapel Hill, N. C., May 9.—Fifteen members of the University of North Carolina track squad left tonight to enter the southern conference meet to be held in Birmingham, Ala., Friday and Saturday. After winning the conference championship in 1926 and rating an outstanding contender last season, the Tarheels will be handicapped this year by the loss of several stars by injuries and the inability to carry a large team to the meet.

The Tarheels go southward undefeated in a dual meet this season and winners of a seventh consecutive state championship, but they will be forced to depend largely on the performances of a few stars for their points at Birmingham. Their chances of victory depend upon how the rookies of the trip come through against the best athletes in the south.

Three individual conference champions were on the squad that left here tonight. They are Captain Hoyt Priddy, a two-time state holder, Galen Elliott, twice winner of the conference mile and all-American star, and "Pun" Harper, discus leader. They will defend crowns won last year.

Others on the long trip are Nims and Harris, quiet runners; Evans, Barksley and Horney, jockeys; Fisher, Miller, Cox, two-milers; Pearson, Stafford and Perry, hurdlers; Jenkins, weight lifter, and Cowper, pole vaulter. Coach Bob Fetzner and Manager R. A. Freeman accompanied the squad.

Loughran Signs For Title Bout
New York, May 9.—(United News.) Humbert J. Fugazy announced today that he has signed Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, to defend his light heavyweight title against Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, Wash., in a 15-round bout at Ebbetts field June 13, but Tex Rickard, who defended crowns won last year.

Rickard contends that he has an option on Loughran's services until November 7, and exhibited a contract said to have been signed by Loughran, to defend his title against Lomski, to prevent the 175-pound champion from fighting Lomski or anyone else under Rickard's promotion.

Leaves for New York.
Aberdeen, Wash., May 9.—(United News.)—Leo Lomski and his manager, Eddie Eicher, will leave for New York Thursday for Lomski's proposed bout against Tommy Loughran, Eicher said today.

Eicher said that he did not anticipate any difficulties in going through with the fight, which was under the Humbert Fugazy agreement.

Succeeds McMillin.
Beaver Falls, Pa., May 9.—(AP)—Mack Flanniken, formerly of Centenary college, Louisiana, hit for the past two years a star backfield man at Geneva college, was named head football coach at Geneva, for two years. He succeeds Alvin (Bo) McMillin, who resigned to accept a berth at the Kansas Teachers' college.

SYNOPSIS

Old John Pybus, formerly a bookkeeper in London and later in Waterbury, is serving as a porter in an inn at Castle Craven when his son, Conrad, sees him there. He's been estranged from both his sons since the beginning of the war and they have lost track of him. Conrad hastens to tell his brother, Freddy, that he has seen his father. Freddy's head without telling his parents of the meeting. When Lance returns to Cambridge for the last term he invites his grandfather to visit him there.

On leaving Cambridge, Lance takes a small room in London and devotes himself to writing. His father gives him a modest allowance.

INSTALLMENT XIII

Lance knew what he had written. The world had come to life in him, the world as he saw it with all its color and artifice, its exquisite blackguardism, its beauty, and its ravishing ugliness. He neither scorned nor admired at this period of life. He saw. He took. He had discovered the mystery of words, their mordant and perhaps merciless power.

To some people—no doubt—he appeared as a very impertinent and self-sufficient young fellow. His Uncle Conrad thought of him as a particularly offensive and swollen-headed "damned young cub." Not that they met very often. His father, bland and delicate, felt more at home with the comfortable in his son's presence, and was preparing to rid himself of that feeling of discomfort. His mother remained completely bewildered, but without realizing her bewilderment. Meanwhile old John Pybus observed him with eyes of trouble and affection. The boy's brilliant, almost damnable brilliant.

That was the danger. Lance, unfettered by the lid of his leather suitcase, had placed the suitcase on one of the Windsor chairs. His grandfather was in the kitchen attending to the kettle.

"I have brought you six more chapters to read, grandfather."

"That's the halfway house, isn't it?"

"The end of a phase. I got rather stuck over Stilton's marriage."

"I don't like the name. What's your reason?"

"If a fellow is called Stilton it gives you the kind of flavor you want about him in the book."

"Gorgonzola or cream?"

"O, gorgonzola at its rankest."

"I seem to recognize your Stilton."

"One of the family, grandfather. The Conrad, with green spots on him, and beginning to crawl."

The venerable heard the crackling of brown paper. Lance was unfolding the parcel that contained the six chapters of "Rust," the parcel would be tied up with a foot-lace or a wooden garter, anything that came handy. But John Pybus' thoughts were not so much with the book as with the author of the book. After each of Lance's visits he would ask himself, "Will he come down next month? Or will a month slip into three months? How much does an old fellow like me matter to him—and why? If he lasts with me through this second phase, he may last with me through the third. For this was the Venerable's last adventure, and perhaps the greatest adventure of his life, the vicarious sailing with this young Argonaut towards Meles and the Golden Fleece."

"Seen Probyn lately?"

"I was down here last week-end. The matter had produced two choice flappers."

The brown teapot was carried in, and Lance brought his grandfather's chair forward. The venerable noticed the act and was touched by it, for whatever Lance might be to the world, he was not anything but gentle to this little old man.

They sat down to bread and butter, and raspberry jam.

"Extraordinary crude ideas people have."

"Our people?"

"My mother thinks that a pretty flapper might make me diverge. Then there is my father. I know he is watching me—just like a sly old dog waiting for the rat to come out of its hole. He thinks if he spreads enough garbage."

The venerable's blue eyes stared. "I don't like cheap similes. Cut them out. The trouble with cleverness."

"O, I know. It's apt to be cheap. The margin between charitable wit and cheapness is very fine. I have written stuff I thought clever, and next day—some was mended."

"But about your father?"

"He is quite sure that I shall want to play with dollars instead of with words. It's not his fault. It's simply that I'm an absolute stranger to him. I'm wondering what he'll do."

"At the end of the two years?"

"Has one ever a safe idea? Probably he will let me go on. But in some ways."

"You would rather he—?"

"I should. What he doesn't realize is, that I'm going on even if I have to live on porridge and jam. He does not realize how inevitable the job is."

He helped himself to more jam. "You are about the only person who does understand that, grandfather. I wonder why you do."

"Because I do."

"Is that an explanation?"

"Think it over. We are—and must be. I suppose Windover is still blind as to my being—"

"Absolutely. I'd rather they remained so—until I've stuffed it into the world that I can write."

That he could write there was no question. "Rust" had astonished John Pybus not a little. How the devil did the boy know what the writing part of him appeared to know? Did he know? And then his women? They puzzled the venerable, did Lance's women. They were all legs and little hats joined by a thread of sexual cynicism. They seemed to do things without knowing just why they did them, and yet without obvious impulse. Yet everything was arranged, your attitude towards your parents, marriage or an affair, the advent or the nonadvent of babies, the apertures of the sexes, the antagonisms, the disharmonies. Nothing of life was taken for granted; everything was questioned.

When tea was over they went out and fed the pigeons. Lance's sophisticated, whatever they might be, had not taken away his pleasure in the feeding of the venerable's flock. He was "Hello, old fellow," to any dog.

He could not resist the amber eyes and the silky ears of the spaniel who lived in a kennel in the garden. Seeing him so gentle to dogs and cats, the venerable would wonder at his impartial ruthlessness towards the men and women in his book. Self-centered he was, and had to be, for youth in its earlier adventures must travel alone. He talked more about himself and his work—more than was necessary—but he did not talk to the world as he talked to his grandfather, and John Pybus forgave him.

On that particular week-end in May, Lance stayed with his grandfather over the Monday, for he could work in his bedroom, and the mood happened to be much with him.

Lance's breakfast was sent across from the hotel, but on this particular Monday morning Lance's breakfast was late, and going up the yard with the idea of meeting it and of saying good morning to Floss, the spaniel, he chanced upon a very ordinary situation.

A shabby little old sear cab had been driven into the yard. The radiator was tarnished, the wings flat, and from the dirty old door with egg baskets and boxes a young woman was extracting a jack and a wheel brace.

Lance stood for a moment and observed her and her activities. She wore a kind of loose Holland coat, brooches, brogues and neat fawn-colored stockings. He could not see her face. She was jacking up the rear wheel, and slapping. He noticed that she had a pretty back to her neck, in spite of her shingle, for it was only a half shingle, and her crisp dark hair covered the white curve with soft shadows.

"May I try?"

Still stopping, she turned her head and looked up at Lance. His first impression of her face was that it was rather plain. It had a kind of austerity. The little blunt nose and severe chin, and the firm fine-lined mouth were neither soft nor hard. She had the air of a young woman with a job on her hands, and his too near a job, perhaps, but then—she was not made for easy things.

"Thanks, You might."

Coolidge Forces Plan Move To Offset Watson's Victory

BY SAM W. SMALL.
Special Staff Correspondent.
Washington, May 9.—The Watson victory over Hoover in Indiana's presidential preference primary yesterday created no special surprise here in political circles, but did dash some hopes among administration people.

They were anxious to have Secretary Hoover win in the Hoosier state as a proof of his personal popularity with the rank and file voters of the party. But even the reports now stand they are not jarred by the Watson figures, but point with pride to the strong total vote given to Hoover against the Hiles-Butlerites in New York to stick on the fence longer. But there is a sub rosa report today that, as a compromise of the fires of the anti-administration allies, Secretary Mellon at Philadelphia Saturday may pledge the caucus of Pennsylvania delegates solidly for Hoover.

If he should do that it will mean that he has a gentlemanly agreement with the New York leaders and that together they will control the Kansas City convention absolutely, write the platform and name the candidates. They will be able to do that with Chesterfield politeness and without the use of a high roller or a 2.5 m. hotel room caucus.

Coolidge Plays Politics.

THOMAS'S PLANE CRASH WILL BE STARTED

Table Rock Cove, S. C., May 9.—(AP)—General relief was felt over the Saluda river valley tonight as the big earthen dam erected to furnish water for the city of Greenville passed the fifth day since a leak at its base started erosion that cut deeply into its side, causing evacuation of all persons residing in the lowlands below it.

Announcement was made at Greenville today by Colonel J. L. Ludlow that steps would be begun tomorrow to check the erosion that have cut half way back through the dam. Sand bags and other supports to strengthen the dyke, weakened by the constant sloughing above the leak through which waters have gushed for five days.

A score or more of families whose homes lie along the river within a few miles below the dam still in temporary shelter tonight and probably will remain out of the danger zone until the water behind the big earthen barrier has been permitted to drain out through the leak and two outlet valves which engineers succeeded in opening Saturday.

The water of the lake, which contained 5,000,000 gallons when the water was discovered gushing from the base of the dam, stood at 108 feet today, and of one foot since yesterday, and eight feet since early Friday night when the alarm was sounded through the valley that collapse of the barrier was but a matter of hours.

Engineers since late Saturday have maintained that the dyke could withstand the pressure of the water behind it, permitting the slow drain through the leak. The plan was to remove the water. The plan was to remove the water. The plan was to remove the water.
